Antcliff, board both happy

Huron supt. resigns

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

What might seem like the end of the world to some people is being viewed optimistically by a resigning school administrator as a blessing.

Dr. Byron Antcliff, superintendent of the Huron Public Schools, is stepping down from that post effective Friday, Dec. 29, 1978 following the working out of an "amicable" agreement between him and the school board.

Thursday night in special session, the school board approved his resignation as superintendent and payment of his annual $41,080 salary until June of next year. His contract was to have expired in June of 1980.

Named by the board Thursday night to function as acting interim superintendent until Jan. 2, 1979 is William Baldwin, currently principal at Renton Jr. High School.

The board announced that it will seek the assistance of the Wayne County Intermediate School District in its attempt to find a replacement for Dr. Antcliff.

Included in the agreement worked out is a provision that Dr. Antcliff will be on leave of absence until September of 1980 from his tenure status as an elementary school teacher. After that date, should he so choose, Dr. Antcliff has the option of teaching in that capacity in the Huron school system, according to the agreement.

"I am leaving the Huron School District with a feeling of great happiness for the future, both for myself and for the district," he said.

Looking back over his 11 years as head of the Huron school system, Dr. Antcliff remarked that he was "blessed" with so many good things that he had "no room for anything bad".

"My friends are happy about it (the agreement with the board). Looking back, I am happy about it also. One of my friends told me that he believed that I had done a lot in the district with very little to work with in the way of money. That made me feel good," he explained.

He said the Huron School District is one that "is out of formula", explaining that he had so many excellent staff members and employees to work with that he felt very fortunate.

"I didn't realize it until later, but I have been blessed with the richest district in the state. I am deeply appreciative," he emphasized.

The superintendent did not mention past differences between himself and the board of education that came out in a recent news story. The story described a so-called "hatchet man" whom the board had hired to help them dump him as superintendent.

"The unanimous agreement between the board and myself is the best step for the district and for me and my family," he said. He said the way in which things had worked out and the good feeling of himself and every member of the board convinced him it was a "miracle".

Prior to coming to the Huron School District, Dr. Antcliff had served as superintendent for three years in the Saugatuck School District and for one year as superintendent of the Mackinac Island School District.

Dr. Antcliff's resignation makes a total of three administrators and one director who have left the school district in the past school year.

His assistant, Phil Dalley, quit in October because he and the school board did not see eye to eye on a variety of matters.

Ron Sniderman, director of basic skills, also reportedly unhappy with the school board, resigned recently. The fourth was Lee Goodney, assistant administrator in charge of maintenance, who retired.

Without these key personnel, Dr. Antcliff was placed in the unenviable position of trying to perform their duties in addition to his busy work schedule.

Last Thursday also was Dr. Antcliff's last day on the job. He will take vacation time until the effective date of his resignation next Friday.

Santa visits Eddie

Santa Claus himself personally visited little Eddie Melton, 4, at his home in Romulus just before Christmas, bringing him gifts for the annual day of peace, good will and present giving. Eddie, shown with his mother, Cheryl, is paralyzed from his chin down after he was hit while riding his bicycle in front of his home last July. Santa's visit to Eddie was made possible by his old friend, Jim Reaves of Westland.

Modern terminal completed

Jones Transfer Company has completed a new multi-million dollar, ultra-modern terminal and garage complex located at 28475 Ecorse Rd., Romulus.

The new facility, which sits on a 22-acre paved site, will replace its freight terminal in Taylor.

Operations are scheduled to begin immediately and 240 people will be employed at the new complex.

The terminal consists of an 82 door, 36,640 square foot dock with an attached two story, 9,600 square foot office, housing various operations and sales offices, as well as a conference room, drivers' rooms and lunch rooms.

Additionally, a new communications system was engineered by Electronic Engineering Corporation system and Motorola has designed a video information display system to be implemented in the dock area to improve loading and unloading procedures.

The facility includes an equipment maintenance and repair shop, complete fire repair shop, five drive-in bays, and several tractor and trailer repair stations. Adjacent to the garage is a digital read-out scale for the weighing of all loads, which simultaneously flashes the weight to the drivers and prints the weight in the dispatch office for permanent record keeping. Additionally, there are three fueling islands capable of accommodating 144 tractors at one time.

The entire complex is lighted by new Lucalox lights which produce three times the output of conventional lighting while using less power.

Jones Transfer drivers are presently logging 100,000 driver miles per day in an effort to insure the continued success of its operation.

The company's ability to service the shipping public of southeastern Michigan and the state of Ohio has been greatly enhanced with the completion of this new facility.

Jones Transfer Company employs 1,048 people system wide and operates over 2,300 pieces of road equipment, serving Southeastern Michigan and the state of Ohio. Jones has freight terminals in Detroit, Pontiac, Flint, Adrian and Monroe, Michigan, and Toledo, Cleveland, Youngstown, Cincinnati, Columbus and Van Wert in Ohio. A new facility will be opened in Akron in January to serve the Akron-Canton area.

Romulus is studied for new facelift

Viewed from the vantage point of persons driving into Romulus, the downtown section presents a very unimposing appearance.

But, some of that may be changing soon if Pat Hogan, community development director, gets the Old Village Revitalization Program off the ground.

Financed by $25,000 left over from last year's city's block grant funds, the program initially will be the brainchild of Hogan and Mayor William M. Oakley.

Included in the revitalization project are:

1) The purchase of outdoor planters and shrubs for the downtown business section. The Romulus Beautification Committee has met with merchants and requested that they decorate and maintain the planters.

2) Preliminary arrangements have been made to contract for the painting of a mural on Billmar's Food Store which will depict Romulus at the turn of the last century.

3) Balance of money from the $25,000 block grant funds will go for the development of an overall plan. The plan will take into account the above two objectives and how to best incorporate the recent addition to the senior drop-in center and the proposed senior citizens high-rise complex into making downtown Romulus more pleasing to local residents and visitors.

Also included in the overall plan, Hogan explained, is to have a planning consultant meet with local businesses to get input on how the revitalization program can best be implemented.

Hogan said he will meet with the planning consultant the first of the year to discuss the program. He emphasized that whatever action is decided upon, it will be up to the city council to give final approval for expenditure of the $25,000 in block grant funds.

VB murder suspect arrested in Missouri

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The long search for a prime suspect in the shooting death last Oct. of Sgt. Steven Lynch of Van Buren Township ended Dec. 15 with the arrest of a Texas truck driver in Kansas City, Mo. by the state highway patrol.

The suspect, Bill Roy Davis, 22, of Tyler, Tex., had been the subject of a search launched by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department shortly after the body of Lynch was found by hunters a half mile west of his parents home in Van Buren.

Lynch, 23, a military policeman stationed with the U. S. Army in Ft. Hood, Tex., had failed to show up at his parents' home while on leave. He had been shot once in the head and once in the chest with his own .357 magnum revolver, according to Det. Walt Holowka of the sheriff's department.

Davis, who police said had a lengthy criminal record, was stopped by Missouri highway patrolmen after the semi-trailer he was driving was involved in an accident in Kansas City. A check by patrolmen showed he was wanted on a fugitive warrant issued by the FBI. He was then lodged in the Jackson County Jail in Kansas City, Holowka said.

The suspect has already been arraigned on the fugitive warrant and is scheduled for an examination Jan. 16. Holowka said Davis refused to waive extradition and a governor's warrant is being sought from Gov. William G. Milliken to have him returned to Michigan to face trial on a charge of first-degree murder.

Police records show that Davis is on probation for rape in California, armed robbery in Texas, larceny of an semi-trailer in Tyler, Tex., and larceny of an automobile in Florida.

Holowka said, based on results of the investigation thus far, police theorize that Lynch picked up Davis in the vicinity of Tyler, Tex., which he had to pass through coming here from Ft. Hood.

Police conjecture that Davis, a muscular six-footer, overpowered Lynch and shot him to death in the field at the end of Burtirig Road west of his parents' home.

Holowka said whoever killed Lynch took the revolver, two shotguns, his wallet and possibly some clothes into which he changed after the shooting.

Fingerprints found on a beer can in Lynch's car, later recovered near Monroe, were identified as belonging to Davis, the detective explained.

He said local authorities are hopeful that extradition proceedings will be successful and that Davis will be brought to this area for prosecution on the murder charge.

Woman dies, man injured in accident

A young Romulus woman died at the hospital a little more than an hour after the car she was driving slid into the oncoming lane of traffic and smashed head-on into another vehicle in Romulus on the night of Christmas Eve.

Pronounced dead at 8:40 p.m. Dec. 24 at Wayne County General Hospital was Connie Joe Drobil, 18, of Romulus.

Patrick J. Tighe, 49, of Flat Rock, the driver of the other car involved in the accident, was injured and taken to the same hospital, according to Det. David Hargreaves of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. Testimony given by Tighe and another driver not involved in the fatal crash stated that the deceased was northbound on Wayne Road south of Grant Road about 7:20 p.m. and that her vehicle skidded on snow and ice into the northbound lane of traffic, Hargreaves said.

The detective said the crash victim was alone at the time of the accident.

Cold weather parking poses poisoning threat

With two dead and two close calls near Ann Arbor already this winter, a University of Michigan Hospital physician warned young people in parked cars not to forget the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning during cold months of the year.

Dr. John G. Weg, MD, head of U-M Pulmonary (lung) Disease Division, noted that the two survivors were brought to the hospital near death. One, a young woman, was saved only through treatment by a U-M diving medicine specialist, Dr. Martin Nemiroff, in the university's high pressure chamber normally used to treat "the bends."

"These people were fortunate that they survived without brain damage," Dr. Weg noted.

"Carbon monoxide poisoning is very subtle," he added. "You cannot depend on a warning. Although there may be symptoms such as headache, nausea or dizziness, often these are not recognized. The person simply drifts off into unconsciousness without even feeling sleepy."

He urged young people not to depend on the soundness of their car's exhaust system.

"Even a tiny leak, in a closed, running car, can be fatal. The best insurance," he said, "is not to park with the motor running."

UNFOUNDED Fears

Some people are so afraid of finding out they have cataracts, they don't go to have their eyes checked by eye-care specialists who can help them.

This can lead to needless blindness. Over 6,300 persons in the United States lose their sight to cataracts every year, yet this condition is curable in most cases. Cataract extraction is one of the most successful operations performed today.

Throughout its 70-year history, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has worked toward eliminating needless loss of sight.

City, schools tell accomplishments

Romulus Community Schools Supt. James Garfield and Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley have released accomplishments thus far of a joint city-school committee formed several months ago.

Out of an original list of 20 items, four have been begun with the following results:

1) A joint newsletter entitled "Around the City" is now being published quarterly and mailed to residents, with the cost being shared by the city and school system.

2) Guidelines have been established on the use of equipment and sharing of tasks.

3) The Romulus Help Center director and new special services director have met to discuss ways in which the center may be utilized by the school system.

4) The city grants department has been appraised of the regional park idea and has suggested possible funding sources, pending a recommendation by the committee and the two governmental bodies.

Other items of business acted upon include a joint administrative luncheon held Dec. 13, 1978 at the high school Romulete Room; a library workshop for school para-professionals conducted by the city librarian; elementary school mothers weekly volunteer book distribution work; school district involvement with the city beautification committee; and student help with city projects such as the airport survey and the "Welcome to Romulus" sign, etc.

Other projects currently under consideration include a special school page in the Romulus Roman, a community-wide social event involving city resident and Romulus alumnus John Long, arranging meetings with service clubs to deal with school problems and the possibility of the committee initiating a community services directory.

A questionnaire, distributed at the Dec. 13, 1978 luncheon was designed to elicit additional ideas from city and school staff.

The committee has met monthly and established a working relationship among its members. The committee is now actively seeking additional input to improve or complement the cooperative programs currently underway or planned.

The joint committee is composed of principals Art McPharlin, Terrel M. LeCesne and Joel Carr, for the school system, and the city by Larry Moore, finance director; John Shea, mayor's assistant; and Jay Young, public information officer.

Files objections first

VB township board delays appeal on judge's jail order

Van Buren Township Board last Wednesday delayed its appeal to a higher court of Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman's order Dec. 8 to allow hookup of a mobile home park to Ypsilanti's sewage system or have the entire board incarcerated for contempt.

The seven-member board was originally slated to go to jail last Friday. However, Judge Kaufman did not order them to appear in circuit court on that day. Also, the court was closed for the Christmas holidays on that date.

Instead of filing an appeal, Richard G. James, township attorney, filed objections with the court clerk and Judge Kaufman's clerk in answer to a proposed order Dec. 15 filed by the attorneys for the mobile home park developers.

"It is now up to the court clerk to notify the plaintiffs' attorneys of our objections and for them to set up a hearing in court for settlement of their proposed order," James said.

At the court hearing, attorneys for both sides would compromise on what the judge meant in his ruling of Dec. 8. He said it was possible the hearing could be scheduled between Christmas and New Year's Day or after the first of the year.

"Regardless of how the judge rules, for us or against us, Van Buren Township will appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals," James explained.

He said the possibility of a entire township board going to jail for acting in the best interests of its constituents is attracting state-wide interest. Because the same situation could happen to any other governmental body in Michigan, James said "briefs as a friend of the court" could be introduced in the appeals court should that legal body get jurisdiction of the case.

This action would allow introduction of material that could have an influence on the appeals court ruling, which James said, could set a legal precedent in such cases.

Judge Kaufman Dec. 8 found the Van Buren Board in contempt of his order issued Oct. 17, 1978, and one issued March 8, 1973.

The March 8, 1973 order directed Van Buren Township "to issue all necessary permits for the construction of a mobile home park and commercial development as would be required under the zoning ordinance permitting the construction of mobile home parks and a commercial development on the property which is the subject matter of this action."

The Oct. 17, 1978, order directed the township "to sign, execute and deliver to the plaintiffs all necessary approvals, consents in writing, applications, and other writings necessary and required by plaintiffs in order to develop their property and obtain sewage disposal facilities in Ypsilanti Township."

In its objections filed last Wednesday, the Van Buren Board said the request for damages asked by the plaintiffs was in error because the judge had not ruled that damages should be paid. Also, the board asked what written forms are being asked for specifically by the park developers and to attach such forms to their proposed order filed Dec. 15.

The Van Buren objection also requested that the 14-day period stated in the plaintiffs' proposed order in which defendants could "purge themselves of their alleged contempt" should start on the date of final entry of the plaintiffs' proposed order and not begin from the date of the Dec. 8 hearing, James said.

In any event, the Van Buren Board will not file an appeal to a higher court until both sides agree on what was meant in the judge's original orders.

In Brief

Taxpayers get break

Because of the Christmas holidays and city hall being closed, the Romulus City treasurer is giving all taxpayers a grace period. Taxpayers may pay their 1978 city and county taxes on Jan. 3, 4, and 5, 1979 and they will be stamped Dec. 31, 1978 so that residents may take them off their 1978 income taxes.

All taxpayers are urged to remember that the treasurer's office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. — Monday through Friday.

Ski course is offered

Join in the fun of today's fastest growing winter sport, cross country skiing, whether beginner or expert, small group or large organization.

The police report stated that Miss Brown died en route to Wayne County General Hospital.

Police said the accident happened at 5:18 a.m. as Miss Brown was driving north on Sumpter Road on her way to work at General Motors Hydramatic Plant in Ypsilanti. She was alone at the time of the accident.

She is also survived by her mother, Amelia, and two brothers,

Seniors mark yuletide

Romulus senior citizens were treated to songs and a potluck dinner recently at the Drop In Center as part of their third annual Christmas celebration. The Rev. Howell Kelly, accompanied by his wife, led the seniors in several gospel numbers before a sumptuous meal consisting of ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, corn, fried chicken, salad, rolls and butter and dessert were served to the 60 seniors in attendance. Pictured in the background are Mayor William M. Oakley and Clerk Leonard J. Folmar. City Treasurer Helen Gallien was also present. (Photo by Jay Young)

"Watch" board elected

The newly-elected Hale Creek Neighborhood Watch board of directors listens attentively as Wayne County Sheriff investigator Jerry Billiter (standing) gives a short history of the sheriff's department and the role of a policeman in today's society. Next month's meeting, scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1979 at the school, will deal with the subjects of locks and security devices and with the problems in today's court system. Guest speakers will include a security expert and two detectives from the sheriff's department as well as a local locksmith. All area residents are encouraged to attend the meetings and actively participate in the group's crime prevention activities. Seated (left to right) are Mike Jones, activities director; Dan Doss, treasurer; Scott Monroe, operation I.D. chairman; Art Berns, vice chairman; and Jesse Kitchens, chairman.

the school. Their schoolmates look as if they got as much fun out of watching as the two contenders for the wish. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Romulus seniors dine out as Madonna College guests

Twenty-five senior citizens from the Romulus Drop-In Center enjoyed an evening at college recently, the guests of a class at Madonna College in Livonia.

The seniors were invited to dinner by members of the class in Nutrition for the Aging, and sampled the cooking at the College Residence Hall.

The dinner was to be an experience in the nutritional choices of seniors in a cafeteria-style dinner, but resulted in educating the students in much more than, nutrition. It was a learning situation for all — seniors and college students alike.

As one student said: "I enjoyed the spontaneity of these elderly people; their friendliness was contagious and gratifying."

Donna Lee Zavitz, coordinator of the program in Romulus, in summing up the senior citizens' reactions, said: "They loved it! They have never before done anything like this, and they absolutely loved it! They were impressed with the students' friendliness."

As one student later related: "It proved to the senior citizens that there are both young and old people who care for them."

Another seemed surprised when she reported: "I had a first-hand chance to observe citizens from all walks of life come together and have an enjoyable meal in spite of our age differences."

According to Zavitz, the seniors returned from dinner exuberant and enthusiastic.

"They've been talking about it ever since and would love to do it again," she said.

The students in the nutrition class did learn about food preferences.

"Senior citizens know more about maintaining their nutritional balance than I thought they did," one student related.

Another stated: "It is important to know that people are using nutritional concepts to improve their health and maintain their vigor. If we could reach more people at an earlier age, we could eliminate possible health problems, obesity and heart attacks in the middle or older years."

Seniors from the Drop-In Center who were dinner guests include Helen Ford, Delores Nowlin, Don Nickel, Phil and Cecelia Ranke, Amy Robertson, Icie Tucker, Stella Randal, Adelia Wilson, Edna Maciejewski, Lydia Kyak, Julia Holstine, Helen Matejczak, Joe and Alma Woodard, Betty Valdez, Betty Johnson and Edith Kolmiender, all from Romulus. director, and Donna Lee Zavitz, coordinator, also attended the dinner.

The idea for the trip was conceived by Jane Delorge, a student in the class, who has done her gerontology practicum at the Senior Drop-In Center in Romulus. The Nutrition for the Aging class is a combined offering of the Home Economics and Family Life and Gerontology Departments.

Beginning with the onset of the winter term on Jan. 8, Madonna is offering partial tuition waivers to 100 students enrolling in the "Seminar on Aging" course offered by the Gerontology Department. This course is rather unique in that it is scheduled as a 13-week series of lectures by experts in the field of gerontology, and offers college credit for volunteer work done in a community agency in conjunction with the course.

This is the fifth consecutive term that Madonna has offered this "Volunteers for the Aging" program.

Registrations for the Volunteers program are accepted daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Registrar's Office, Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150. Call 591-1200, ext. 53.

It makes sense.

What Doctors of Chiropractic do, makes sense. They use their hands and a variety of practiced techniques to relieve the pressures that twisted vertebrae put on spinal nerves. The thought is, if you fix the spinal cord so it's not pinched . . . messages from the brain will flow unobstructed. When that happens, the brain communicates better with other parts of the body so every piece and part receives the messages they need to properly function. The result is improved health.

Circuit Court case cost surveyed by legislature

An emergency resolution calling for an investigation of the costs of assigning circuit court cases to local district courts was approved by the Michigan House of Representatives Dec. 14.

Sponsored by State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia, Westland) and Tom Brown (D-Westland), the resolution directs the House Fiscal Agency to make an immediate study of the effects of Public Act 330 on local communities.

The act, approved by the legislature earlier this year, permits the Wayne County Circuit Court to assign up to 200 cases per judge per year to the county's District Courts, including the 18th District Court in Westland, the 29th District Court in Wayne, and the 16th District Court in Livonia.

"We want to find out the monetary implications of this act as quickly as possible," Law said, "and we have asked the House Fiscal Agency to conduct an investigation and report back to us by Dec. 31."

"The local governments are concerned that they won't have enough money to pay for these trials, many of which concern cases of trying each of the 200 cases outside their jurisdiction. The costs of trying each of the 200 cases assigned to our three district courts have been estimated at $400 per trial. That means in Westland, where $5,000 has been budgeted for witness fees, taxpayers will have to pay $180,000 per year. In Wayne, the $7,500 for "witness fees won't begin to pay for $80,000 needed."

Brown said that the legislature approved Public Act 330 to relieve the crowded court dockets.

"Unfortunately, no funding formula was included, so the cost has to be borne by the local governments," he said. "City officials just don't know where they are going to get the money, and I sympathize with their concern."

Brown and Law introduced the resolution in the closing days of the legislative session, successfully arguing for a suspension of rules so it could be approved by the House.

"When we receive our report from the House Fiscal Agency, we will take the appropriate action if, indeed, the burden is as large as it now appears to be," Law said.

Honey bees: Indicators of air pollutant levels

Honeybees may be pests at picnics, but they're winning their stripes in the fight against air pollution.

Some environmentalists are recruiting honeybees to monitor air quality.

"If we use honeybees correctly, we are practically assured of an early warning of pollutant levels, perhaps in time to avoid harm," says entomologist Jerry Bromenshenk of the University of Montana in Missoula.

Since two coal-fired powerplants have been built in a region under study in Montana, fluoride levels—even in bees miles away from the area—have doubled. Studies also show bees accumulate radioactive substances leaking from waste-disposal sites and from atmospheric fallout. So far bees have been used to trace more than 40 elements, including lead, cadmium and sulfur.

Interestingly enough, however, a natural filter in the bees' abdomens extracts most pollutants so that the levels in honey "are usually quite low."

According to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan — the Christmas Seal people — most air pollution comes from combustion—in furnaces, vehicles, incinerators and open dumps. Here's what they suggest everyone can do to curb pollution:

- Find out what air pollution laws and regulations are in effect in your city and in Michigan. Obey them.
- Make sure your own furnace and the air pollution control devices on your car are working properly.
- Keep your house heat low. Use your electrical appliances as seldom as possible. Drive your car only when you must.

The American Lung Association is not yet using bees to detect pollutants in the air, but it has lots of information about other ways to fight pollution.

Pack precautions to protect luggage

Travel time hurts when it's lost luggage time. By packing some "precautions" before you leave home, you can avoid this unhappy consequence when you arrive.

Putting a label on the outside of your luggage is the most important way to help prevent permanent loss and to aid speedy return when found. Airlines now require you to place identification on the outside of your luggage. If there's no identification on the outside of your luggage and it is misplaced, an airline will open it.

Some people use tags on the outside of suitcases, but it's best to use adhesive labels — one to each piece of luggage. Tags can tear loose, and if the handle on your suitcase comes off, so does the tag. Be sure to tear off old destination tags before you go on the next trip. It's easy for transportation personnel to get the tags confused. It's best to tape your name, home address and phone to the inside of your luggage as well as to the outside. If you're traveling extensively, include an itinerary inside each suitcase. Also keep one with you so you can inform the authorities where to send the luggage when it's found.

How can you best insure your property when you travel? Coverage for luggage and its contents is usually provided in the personal property section of a homeowner's or renter's policy. It is worldwide coverage; however, the amount of coverage depends on the type of policy purchased. Furthermore, certain kinds of property, such as borrowed business property, may not be covered at all. So it's best for you to check with an insurance agent if you plan to take valuables on your trip. Cameras and other expensive objects like jewelry are covered under the personal property section of your homeowner's or renter's policy, but the coverage is subject to limits applicable to these types of items. You can purchase additional coverage for these items with a "scheduled personal property endorsement." The endorsement covers various types of personal property and requires that items be listed ("scheduled") with their description.

In some cases, an appraisal and bill of sale is required before scheduled insurance will be issued. For this reason, you may not be able to obtain immediate coverage on expensive items you purchase while you travel. So if you are planning to make valuable purchases on your next trip, contact an insurance agent before you go.

If your valuables are not sufficiently covered by homeowner's or scheduled personal property endorsements, you can usually buy additional insurance at the transportation terminal.

— If your luggage is of a commonly-used design, you may wish to place a few strips of brightly-colored tape on it. That will help you describe the luggage to authorities in the event of loss.

— Keep an inventory at home of all the valuables you take with you, including the serial numbers of cameras and lenses.

— Hand carry valuables and passports at all times, and never put your wallet in your luggage.

— Allowing an hour between flights, train or bus departures helps make sure your luggage is transferred in time.

— Don't overpack. Overpacking can cause luggage to burst open, especially when it's dropped or handled roughly in transfer, and you may lose contents as a result.

— Lock your suitcase when traveling, and check your bags when you fly.

Emotions in worship: Fanaticism or faith?

"People are creatures of extremes" a professor once told me, and the more I look about me, the more I see the truth of his statement. Balance is an important key in achieving the happy, satisfying lifestyle that we all long for. We are constantly reminded to balance our diet, our exercise, our work load, and don't forget your checkbook! Yes, balance is important.

The dramatic growth that has taken place within many Pentecostal and Charismatic groups during the last decade, has prompted many to ask, "Where is the balance in the exercise of my emotions when I come to worship the Lord Jesus Christ?" It's a question that needs to be answered directly and honestly, for our society and much of our Christian clergy have intimidated people into believing that they must be very quiet, totally reserved and staid to be "religious" and avoid the charge of emotionalism, thus insinuating a weak intellectual capacity for reasoning and fact.

First, let us recognize that our emotions are a God-given gift to us, that enables us to release our feelings to that which we may experience, whether good or bad. The basic emotions of love, joy, anger, fear, and grief are a part of the emotional make-up of every one of us and warrant a legitimate place in all of our lives.

For example, can you imagine an un-emotional courtship between two young people? Half of the attraction to the relationship was due to a lover's quarrel and the ensuing tearful reunion. Remember? How about an unemotional football game? No, these are human impossibilities because of our emotional make-up. Still, balance is the key and we must remain in control.

Now then, can you really imagine an unemotional response to the love of God for you and I that would be pelating to Him? No, of course not. For even repentance, which is the primary prerequisite for entrance into the Body of Christ, involves the deepest of human emotions, that is, sorrow for sin plus the determination to turn from these sins in the future by His help and grace. This is where the Holy Bible comes in, for as God's written Word, it serves as our stabilizer in the exercise of our emotions. For example, in Ephesians 4:26 we're told: "Be ye angry and sin not..." implying that it is not a sin to be angry, but if we go to the extreme and allow our anger to carry us into hatred, then we also are wrong.

Throughout 1st Corinthians, chapters 13 and 14, the apostle Paul provides the principles and regulations that are needed for well balanced worship. He concludes in 1st Corinthians 14:40 by saying: "Let all things be done decently and in order." This was written to an assembly of believers who were allowing their emotions to run away with them. They lacked any regulations and personal restraint, and, therefore, were out of order. But to be so staid and reserved due to fear, peer pressure, or inferiority complex, etc., is just as indecent and out of order, for it's an extreme and improper response to the Holy Spirit who is reaching out and longing to minister God's love and grace.

As Jesus was making His triumphant entry into Jerusalem, the Pharisees told him to rebuke His disciples for praising and worshipping Him with a loud voice. He responded by demanding an emotional response from something, if not from men, then from His own creation, the rocks (Luke 19:35-40). Yes, even creation is moved emotionally at the presence of God (read Psalm 114).

Just a passing thought, but I sometimes wonder if the prophet Ezekiel (Ezekiel 1:28) and the apostle John (Revelation 1:17) had been caught lying on their faces on the ground before the presence of the Lord, if they would have been charged with over emotionalism or called holy-rollers?

I am not promoting any wild emotionalism for our forms of worship, but neither do I respect the cold, lifelessness of "Churchianity". We do not have to wear our emotions on our cuff for all ways to see, but when God's Spirit comes to minister to us, we ought not resist that natural, God-given, emotional response to yield to Him. "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven", and our emotions, like our automobiles, are to be used, but not abused. We desperately need mature, Christian leadership today that is familiar with the Scriptural balance and regulations that can lead congregations into well balanced spiritual, mental and emotional worship.

Permitting Jesus to become the Lord of our lives also involves His being Lord over our emotions. Observe the balance of the Holy Scriptures and commit your emotional life to Him as well. Try it, you'll like it!

Commissioner urges county to reject state funds

Wayne County Commissioner George Killeen says that he will urge the county to temporarily reject a $1.3 million state grant to beef up Sheriff's traffic patrols unless the state agrees to let the county spend those dollars on more critical law enforcement needs.

Killeen said a Nov. 27 letter from Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas asks the Board of Commissioners to apply for a $1,253,620 state grant to establish what amounts to a "traffic control and ticketing team" on county secondary roads in an effort to reduce auto accidents.

Under Public Act 416 of 1978, commonly known as the Sheriff's Secondary Road Law, the state made all 83 Michigan counties eligible for state funds to expand Sheriff's road patrol services in the area of traffic law enforcement.

The State Legislature has appropriated an initial $8.7 million for a state-wide secondary road patrol program with Wayne County slated to get $1.3 million for fiscal 1978-79.

"I think it is foolish to talk about expanding traffic road patrols when there is a critical need for those dollars in the criminal justice system already," Killeen said.

"Wayne County is in a financial strait jacket. We are laying off prosecutors and have slashed court budgets and other vital county services in an effort to balance our budget."

"Then, along comes the state, with a tantalizing $1.3 million offering, but unfortunately, those much-needed state dollars are directed solely at the enforcement of traffic violations, rather than the hard-core criminal who is roaming the streets committing murder, rape and armed robbery."

"It would be wonderful if we had the money to do all things—including catching all the speeders and drunks on our highways. But we don't! And it's up to the Board of Commissioners to determine and adjust our spending priorities so that we use limited dollars in the best interests of all of the taxpayers of this county," he added.

Killeen said he will seek the necessary legislative changes to allow the county to spend those dollars on a county-wide basis for priority law enforcement needs such as the Organized Crime Task Force and the jailing of hardened criminals.

He said he will introduce a resolution before the Board of Commissioners, urging the state to "reconsider" its imposed restrictions on this tax money, especially in light of Wayne County's dire need for funds in the criminal law enforcement area.

"What frustrates me is that the state is willing to spend $1 million to catch normally law-abiding citizens, but it turns the other way when we ask for funds to catch and lock up crooks and violent criminals," he added. "As the grant offer now stands, only 20 percent of the people of Wayne County would derive any benefit from the million-dollar expenditure."

He said that only the villages, and townships (the unincorporated areas) would derive any benefit at all. In addition, the majority of the revenue collected from traffic offenders would go into the coffers of the few municipalities where the Sheriff would be patrolling.

Killeen also said he had "reservations" about accepting state grants that were "subject to run out in a few years."

"This could leave the county with a new program to fund down the line — and the accompanying labor difficulties, such as we have now, if we try to lay off anybody once state funds run out," he warned.

According to the Sheriff's letter, the grant would fund a secondary road patrol unit consisting of 27 police officers, one detective (traffic specialist), a police sergeant, and a lieutenant. It would also purchase a fleet of 17 patrol cars, one van, radar sets, radios and other supportive equipment.

He said that in the case of Romulus alone, this grant would cost the county 10 percent to administer the program along with fringe benefits.

"We simply can't afford to be taking on new costs when we are laying off people in critical public services," he concluded.

Faust bill helps municipalities avoid financial woes

The Michigan Senate last week gave final approval to a bill sponsored by Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-13th District) which will help local units of government avoid financial troubles by establishing uniform budgeting procedures.

The bill has been sent to the governor to be signed into law.

"All Michigan taxpayers who have a vested interest in the financial health of our local units of government will benefit from the enactment of this legislation," Faust said. "It not only prohibits deficit spending, but it also generally ensures that public officials responsible for budget matters carry out their duties prudently and by following sound, uniform procedures."

"It will help our local units of government avoid the over-spending syndrome which has plagued our cities in the last several years," Faust said. "Spelling out the exact budgeting guidelines local units must follow to ensure fiscal health will greatly minimize the chances of any one unit requesting a higher level of government to bail it out of financial trouble, which is a situation that penalizes all taxpayers." Among other things, the bill requires that one public official be responsible for the budget of a local unit of government, which must be balanced when submitted to the local governing board for approval. In addition, it requires the governing board to approve all transfers of funds and the proper authorization of any spending.

Bill would raise township's fines

A House originated bill increasing the fine for violating township ordinances has been sent to the Governor for his signature.

Sponsored by Rep. Robert C. Law (R-36th District), the measure increases fines for violations from $100 to $500 and makes the statute comply with District Court law. The bill also strikes a provision requiring payment of the fine to a justice of the peace or other judicial officer and removes outdated language from the books. "The original statute set the maximum fine for breaking a township ordinance at $100 years ago," Law said. "That proved to be insufficient when today's administrative and court costs were taken into consideration."

"In addition, the statute was in conflict with the rules of the District Court, and this bill rectified that situation also," he continued.

The bill was approved by the House at the beginning of the year and has been awaiting action in the Senate since February.

It streamlines the internal workings of township government while also providing a strong incentive for obeying the law, Law added.

'Second Empire to open at institute

The biggest exhibition in its history is now being shipped to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"The Second Empire: Art in France under Napoleon III" will open in Detroit on Jan. 18 for eight weeks through March 18.

With 362 works, paintings, sculpture, furnishings, decorative arts and rare period photographs, the huge show will portray the arts which dominated France and shaped American taste from 1852 until 1870.

"The Second Empire" has just closed in Philadelphia, where it is set new attendance records for a period show of this type. Detroit will be the only other North American showing. From Detroit it goes to the Grand Palais in Paris this spring.

The sumptuous exhibition is the largest loan ever made to America by France. The lenders, organized by curators of the Musees de France and the Philadelphia Museum of Art, include private collectors as well as French provincial museums.

Early reviews of the show include Newsweek, which said "...astonishing...a celebration of ornament." New York

Magazine reported "...stunning...accredited technological and artistic marvels..."

"WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR FUNERAL TRAFFIC?"

Traffic rules governing funeral processions differ sometimes from those governing other traffic. These tips may help if you are in a funeral procession (or to be remembered if you encounter one):

1. Use the windshield sticker or flag we provide.
2. Keep your headlights on. It identifies our vehicle as part of the procession.
3. If the procession is crossing an intersection while the traffic light changes to red, continue through. Do not stop. The funeral procession has the right-of-way. The lead car, of course, will stop and obey all posted signals.
4. A policeman, if available, may direct funeral traffic through busy intersections.
5. Obtain and read the state traffic regulations regarding funeral processions.
6. If you are NOT part of the procession, remember it has right-of-way. Do not cross it or join it.

Safety pays off in sledding, tobogganning

With the arrival of winter's snow at the Metroparks and throughout southeastern Michigan, winter sports enthusiasts should follow these "safety tips" concerning the use of toboggans and sleds, according to Chief Park Ranger Steve Shaffer of Lower Huron and Willow Metroparks near New Boston and Belleville.

The four basic facts concerning safety are outlined as follows:

(1) Know the area you are using: Check for hidden hazards. Snow may hide logs, stumps, stones or fences. Check snow condition before taking your first ride. Frozen snow and ice can cut like broken glass. Do not go down any hill when you cannot see the entire length of the ride. Do not use areas or hills where there are bumps or drop-off areas. Read and obey posted rules and signs.

(2) Use proper equipment: Wear warm clothing and footwear. Protect your face and hands with ear muffs, gloves and a scarf. Have a good toboggan pad securely attached to the toboggan at all times. Check your toboggan for broken or cracked boards after each run. Do not use broken equipment.

(3) Use equipment properly: A toboggan is very hard to steer, especially on hard-packed snow. Do not overload toboggans or sleds. Be sure to keep your arms and legs inside the toboggan or sled. Hold tightly to sideropes and hold the legs of the person behind you under your arms and do not let go.

(4) Use area safely: Do not use sleds and toboggans on the same runs. Sleds cut ruts and make it difficult to keep toboggans running smoothly. Toboggans pack snow and make it difficult to steer sleds. In heavy use areas, allow the group ahead of you sufficient time to get out of the way before starting downhill. Remember, you don't have any method of stopping once you start your ride downhill. Use marked returns. Do not walk up the hill where others are sledding. Get out of the way as soon as you stop. Be alert for other groups coming down the hill after you.

These safety tips apply to persons tobogganing or sledding anywhere in Michigan. Metroparks that offer sledding and tobogganing areas are

Stony Creek Metropark near Utica (phone 781-4242), Kensington Metropark near Milford (phone 685-1561), Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville (phone 697-9181), with moderate slopes only, and Willow Metropark near New Boston (phone 697-9181).

'Sing sober' tune for safe driving

Holiday party hosts who make their guests "sing" a sober tune before driving can help "Detect A Drunk" and keep those who overindulge in alcohol off Michigan roads this Christmas-New Year's, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"We are advising persons serving alcohol over the holidays to test guests' driving capability before they leave Christmas-New Year's parties," said Auto Club General Manager James Moffat.

Through its "First A Friend, Then A Host" program, Auto Club is offering free "Detect-A-Drunk" information sheets through its 55 offices state-wide. The sheets show hosts how to test for sobriety.

The "Detect-A-Drunk" sheet lists eight easy-to-do activities for sober participants, including "Three Coins on the Carpet," which requires picking up coins tossed on the floor, and the "Hokey Pokey," turning in a circle three times without staggering.

"Lock Around the Clock" requires inserting a key in a door lock while "Stagger Line" consists of walking heel to toe in a straight line. The "ABC's of Love" demands reciting the alphabet, and, to "Stand Tall," one must stand erect and unsupported without weaving.

"Imbibers should take our 'Detect-A-Drunk' test before leaving a party so they don't end up performing some of those same tasks at curbside for police," Moffat explained. He said the test was put together with the cooperation of the Dearborn Police Department.

"While Auto Club stresses no drinking for drivers, we realize that eight out of 10 motorists probably will have a social drink or two and then drive during the holidays," he added. "Our aim is to make drivers aware that moderation in alcohol use can help 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!'"

Alcohol was a known or suspected factor in half of the 14 traffic deaths in Michigan last Christmas holiday and in nearly 70 percent of the 15 New Year's holiday fatalities.

"With the legal drinking age rising to 21 on Dec. 22, it is hoped that the lethal combination of drinking and driving will be greatly reduced over previous holidays for motorists under 21," Moffat said.

Auto Club statistics show that the most likely candidates for fatal traffic accidents this holiday are drivers 26 or younger who will drive after drinking.

Thirty-three percent of the drivers involved in traffic deaths last Christmas holiday were in that age group. Over the last New Year's holiday, 61 percent of the drivers involved in fatal traffic mishaps were 26 or younger even though that group makes up less than 30 percent of the Michigan driving population.

Editorial opinions

If the truth be known!

This week's 'Editor's Log' is a good example of the license some of our staff takes under the guise of editorial copy.

While it is certainly true that the Editorial Dept. is a very important part of this newspaper group, it is not the only part.

Equal time as it were, it is only fair that the rest of the hard working staff at Associated Newspapers gets the recognition they deserve.

Within each newspaper is a group of people who are designated the Composition Dept.

Their job is to put together the materials supplied from the Editorial and Advertising Departments to create a finished product which is delivered to your door each week.

If the truth were known, more than likely, it is this department that contributes the most to our final products.

Kathie Elmore, supervisor and Virginia Roullier regularly apply their talents to improving the page lay-out supplied by editorial personnel. Often being called upon to make 'a silk purse out of a sow's ear'.

Working with Kathie and Virginia are the following people whose efforts are not recognized often enough: Jackie Lyles, Kathy Wade, Pam Haase, Debbie Hanson, Dolores and Linda Gosienski, Cheryl Bailey, Joyce Wilson, Russ White, Mary Porter, and Gail Snible. Gail by the way is the person who is forced to work with the editor on his Editorial pages. Quite a cross to bear!

Supporting the efforts of the Composition Dept. is our Camera Department. Ken Peterson, long time member of the Associated Newspaper family leads the way with John Haase, and Tim Ford assisting.

The press room staff, those folk who print the finished product are supervised by Gregg Morrison and Ken Lindeman. Pressman Tom Carrig and Steve Michalski, keep the machines running while Rick Ford, Mike Partin,

Once the newspapers are printed it is up to those folk in the circulation department to get it delivered to our great bunch of carriers.

Gene Wertz heads up that operation with Art Sandstedt, Gail Lewis, Rick Jewell, Vernon McMasters and Carol Chomos rounding out the staff.

And of course without the efforts of our advertising department, none of us would be here.

Heading Retail Advertising is Fred Nesley with Joan Hines running the Classified Ad Department. Working with them are the following people: Jeanette Hash, Judy Marshall, Judy Pelzman, Bob Johnson, Sandra Havro, Brenda Winfrey, Gregg Elsavitis, Harvey Walker, Bill Baron, Georgeana Jackson, Dan Klimkosky, Pat Croo, Harold Babbitt, Bert Osterberg, and Bob Krzeczowski.

These are the people who provide our advertisers with the knowledge and know-how to get their message across to our readers.

Another group we could not do without is our 'keepers of the numbers', the Accounting Dept.

Headed by Cheryl Williams who is assisted by Nina Willett, this duo keep the wheels of progress well oiled.

And of course the cement holding the entire operation together is the Administrative Department.

Owner Publisher David J. Willett is assisted by Donna Willett, Beth and Dorothy Jacobs, Mike Reddy and all the Department heads.

In addition to all of these people, we rely on a fine bunch of folk who insert our papers and deliver them to carriers' homes.

So you see, the Editorial Department is not the only part of this newspaper or any other.

The newspaper you receive each week reflects the efforts of many, many people who all bring a special talent to the job.

VB's officials

What better way to start the new year than to stand for your principles and even risk jail for properly representing those who have placed their trust in you?

Well, last week in Van Buren, officials took exactly that position.

When a circuit court judge decided that illogical law was more important than the public welfare, those Van Buren officials decided to make their stand.

The case revolves around the public's right to protect itself, and a private developer's right to develop.

When the developer was refused access to the community's sewers because that system was already overloaded and occasionally responsible for the dumping of raw sewage into Belleville

Lake, they went to circuit court.

There, Judge Kaufman said that the community could not deny access to the sewers even though such access could increase community problems.

Should Kaufman's order stand, and should those Van Buren officials end up in jail, and should those developers gain access to the sewer system, then we will all have to question the value of laws which would sacrifice the public welfare for the benefit of a single developer.

We think Kaufman made an error. Probably not a legal error, but a substantial error in good judgment and common sense.

Van Buren's officials deserve a hearty 'well-done.'

Editor's Log

My unsung heroes

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

With Christmas now behind us and the new year approaching, once again it is time to give credit to all those people who have made this job of mine a little easier.

First of all I would like to publicly thank my fine staff.

I believe there exists nowhere, a better, more dedicated group of people committed to bringing you the news each week.

Sue McDonald, our news editor, comes close to walking on water. She probably learned how to do that through trying to out-guess her boss when often he doesn't even know what his next request will be.

Sports Editor Tom Mooradian needs no introduction to anyone who has been reading these newspapers for any period of time.

Tom was sitting here the day the building was put up. Workers simply walked around him and when the building was completed, they set a desk and typewriter in front of him, and he has been going strong ever since.

Chief Photographer Lothar Konejtzko needs no introduction either.

Lothar walked off the boat from this native Germany and into the dark rooms at Associated Newspapers. Speaking no English, he went to work learning how to take pictures and to speak the language. Needless to say, he mastered the art of photography and our language as well.

While Lothar hasn't been back to work yet following his near fatal auto accident late last year, he is still held in the highest regard by his fellow workers.

While on the subject of photography, Tom Greenwood, our staff photographer — the fellow who was given the near impossible task of filling in for the ailing Lothar — has progressed from a good photographer to a fine photographer. Tom has been with us only a year, but his work with stuff called the "Zone System", F-stops, shutter speeds and composition is gaining him a fine reputation.

Maureen "don't call me honey" Camps leads the list of our excellent staff of reporters.

She has spent the last year covering the Westland beat and as usual, has done an outstanding job. Maureen's byline has appeared on most of the important stories emanating in her city.

Jim Bradley, former clergyman and the conscience of the news room, is currently covering the Inkster beat. Jim has the unique ability of being able to communicate with anyone. He has in the past served this newspaper in other cities. Comments following Jim are always positive. He is a credit to his profession.

Bob Ameen, former Livonia editor for Associated Newspapers, has returned to these newspapers to bring his unique approach and insight to bear on the Belleville-Romulus areas, his current assignment.

Of those on our staff, Bob most typifies the "hard nosed" news reporter seen in films. But his hard exterior simply protects his soft interior.

Carrie Young, the newest member of the general reporting staff, is the young lady often seen lecturing the managing editor on the ethics of journalism.

She has brought to the job a fresh approach to gathering news, and no one is immune from her probing reporting, including her father, who may have an illegal sign in front of his Canton business.

Lee Smith, the elegant lady from Belleville, who produces the material for that area's society section is something special, too.

Lee, the mother of three daughters, always looks like she has just walked out of the pages of Harper's Bazaar magazine. She is always a pleasure to be around, and her weekly columns are done very well.

Kay DeBord, former longtime member of the Eagle staff, has just returned to apply her magic fingers to the social pulse of this area. Well known by almost everyone, Kay has brought back to these newspapers the hometown flavor responsible for our success.

Diane Ferguson, "general manager" of the Belleville office, is typical of the kind of people associated with our papers. Diane has been involved in her town for years and has assisted in many community projects, dreamed up by others, but carried to completion by her efforts, often exclusively. She freezes in parades and caters to beauty queens and represents us better than we ever could ourselves.

These are the people responsible for producing the best hometown newspapers ever.

Throughout the year I often am the beneficiary of their efforts.

While they never complain because most readers often overlook their accomplishments, I am fully aware that they are the very back bone of Associated Newspapers.

Thank you staff.
Happy New Year, everyone.

It's become a tradition, each year, for many publications to come out with an edition in which certain individuals and organizations are given annual awards. We think that's a good idea, and we are going to do the same thing in this, our last column of 1978. Please understand that most of the following is done tongue in cheek; we really mean no offense. Hopefully, you'll be able quickly to separate the genuine kudos from the satire.

Our first award goes to one of Detroit's two major daily newspapers. It's called the Shame on You award and is granted to a sportswriter who recently, in a Sunday edition yet, wrote a story which contained copy word for word from the October edition of the PCHA 'INSITE' newspaper.

Clearly, a writer is flattered to see his copy being used by one of the giants of the industry. But, gosh, it sure would have been nice to have had a credit line. Tsk, tsk and shame on you Mr. Sportswriter!

Second, we feel the people responsible for establishing programming schedules for CBS (Channel 2) have earned the 'Thoughtless Scheduling of the Year' award.

We are convinced that even the most dedicated apologist for TV will admit that there is indeed precious little worth watching 80 percent of the time. So what does CBS do? Well, they get a quality show (Lou Grant) and schedule it opposite ABC's Monday Night Football — one of the most popular shows on the air.

We resent such scheduling, because we can infer that CBS is implying that we can not enjoy both football and contemporary drama. Fie on you, CBS.

The 'Quest for Brotherhood' award must go to one of America's great organizations which purports to be the defender of the Constitution.

These serious people spent considerable time, intellect, and energy assisting the Nazis in Chicago to promulgate a message of hate and violence. The organization has now come full circle and is busying itself trying to outlaw suggestions of Christmas in public institutions.

Even the most dedicated of these Constitutionalists must understand that the Christmas message of love and brotherhood is not the proprietary domain of one religion. Hey folks, how about taking the time to make the vital distinction between liberty and license?

A very popular magazine, Playboy, recently interviewed one of America's great sex symbols; a young lady whose only redeemable value is her plastic smile. For that interview, we proudly award the 'Empty Between the Ears' award for what we believe to be the most vacuous, inane, insipid, and pathetic piece we've read in many a year. If this pretender to a niche in entertainment history actually serves as a model for our young women, then may God have mercy on all of us.

The 'Tongue-Tied' award this year goes to an announcer on one of Detroit's radio stations. Mercifully, we'll not use his name. Just a month ago, in his most proper stage voice, he concluded his newscast with a brief weather report in which he said, "Temperatures tomorrow will hover right around the freezing mark, and we can expect slow and sneet — excuse me, I mean steet and slow."

Before he could have a third shot at stumbling through the words, the network broke in with a commercial.

Jim Campbell, General Manager of the Detroit Tigers baseball team, wins the 'Carrot on a Stick' award for his adroitness at promising a winner but providing only a glimmer of hope.

He refused to get serious in the free agent draft, preferring instead to stick with his young players who themselves are going to be free agents in about two years. At that time, Mr. Campbell, you just might have to give some one a bite of that carrot.

Our last award, and this one is truly a kudo, goes to Bill Faust, a former Township Supervisor in Nankin, who just two weeks ago was again elected Senate Majority Leader at the Statehouse in Lansing.

Bill is our nominee for 'Good Guy of the Year'. You've come a long way, Billy, from the local scene to rubbing elbows with the greats and near-greats of our State and Country. Today you enjoy tremendous power — as much as anyone in Michigan — but you remain a friend and all-around good guy. There are possibly many political figures who could go to school on your conduct and learn the value of maintaining old friendships.

Happy New Year.

Parade workers thanked

EDITOR:

Once again the holiday season was ushered into Belleville with the annual Christmas parade.

Thanks to the participants who made the beautiful floats and costumes that depicted the fun and also the religious side of Christmas, the individuals, clubs, organizations, the schools and churches, boyscout and girlsout troops, dignitaries and queens, Ronald McDonald, Christmas carols and elves, and of course Santa, and also the Romulus High School Marching Band and Belleville High School Marching Band.

Thanks also to the contributors and workers, the behind the scenes people from the community who made things happen with their time, work, and talents and made this one of the most joyous parades for young and old alike. Thanks to the Belleville Enterprise for the news coverage and photographs.

We also thank the viewers — their response made it all worth while. The Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce thanks you all.

Tour was great!

EDITOR:

I had a wonderful time viewing Nashville and the Smoky Mountains in mid-october accompanied by thirty eight delightful Romulus area senior citizens.

The trip was uniquely conceived, well planned and professionally executed.

Many of us found this trip an opportunity to renew old friendships, review past memories and find out for ourselves what goes on at the Romulus "Drop In Center".

The weather was gorgeous, the leaf color unbelievable and southern hospitality is a joy to experience.

Three cheers for the Romulus Recreation Department. My advice, "Don't Miss The Next Senior's Trip".

Vet wants letters

EDITOR:

I lived in Wayne in 1958-59 for 18 months. I am a 54 year old disabled veteran of World War II.

I was wounded in action 3 times in the Battle of the Bulge and had 13 operations and had to have both legs amputated.

It would make me very happy if you would have my letter published in the Wayne Eagle. It would make me happy just to receive get well cards, letters or a Christmas card in December from the wonderful people from Wayne and the surrounding areas.

I very seldom get out this time of the year when the weather is bad. That is why when I receive mail it gives me something to look forward to.

Let's do it again, again...

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

The tree stands forlornly in the corner of the room, somehow drooping tiredly in its loss of the gaily wrapped packages which had nestled at its feet for the past ten days; Donny and Marie's microphone is bleeping erratically each time CKLW comes on the air, and George (our dog) keeps sniffing lazily at empty cartons. Even the fire is burning lazily.

The Santa Claus who lives at our house is wrapped in his snug-sack and the chairs are full of people who are full of Christmas.

It is Christmas night, 1978.

They are all there. All of those little ones with whom I have shared Christmas for many years, only now...now...

Could that six-foot plus young giant playing with his little kid's spider-man be the same baby I brought home twenty-eight years ago on Christmas Eve? And he cried all night?

Can the elegant psychologist beaming at her blond, curly-haired boy be that first baby with whom we were blessed at Christmas time when we first became a family?

And the others...the long, lanky blond lying on the floor playing with his young nephew's Dare-Devil flying machine? His whoops of laughter strangely reminiscent of the whoops of laughter coming from a little kid dangling from the dining room chandelier, or snaking up the cupboard doors, or from the kid who could get music from the electric toothbrush, and toast from the radio. He was an electrical genius, and that's what he's telling his nephew as they argue over whose turn it is at the Dare-Devil machine!

That six footer standing on the coffee table with his Canon camera! Can it be? Can it be that little kid, who after being involved in a car accident, tearing his head open and breaking his collar bone, was only concerned about the ruin of his baseball shirt?

And 'Nini,' our Jane, who received from God a heart big enough for five people her size, radiant in her gifts and in her love for her own.

And, of course, our baby, cuddling the teddy-bear which Santa brought her, almost ready to leave her childhood behind and go out in the world with her adult brothers and sisters, only she keeps looking behind at her young nephews and nieces, thinking it might be better there.

All of our children...and their chosen ones who have found special places in our hearts...and the little ones, five beautiful, blond, sturdy children who look like their predecessors.

My heart near bursts, and over the shouting, and the whoops of laughter, and the arguing, Uncle Gunnar (who lives with us) comes bearing a tray of 'glug' (the Swedish Christmas drink). Tripping over little kids and dog, aero-space people, and fire engines, he bestows his offering of love.

God willing...let it all happen again, and again, and again.

Happy New Year!

On the Brighter Side

Two 'unforgettable' gifts

By JIM BRADLEY

"Wait and open those two gifts last," my oldest sons, Terry and Craig, said almost in unison on Christmas Eve.

My wife, Pansy, and I curiously looked at the pair of large gifts on the bottom of the gaily decorated pile of presents. Naturally I wondered why they made that request and realized that those gifts were probably special for mom and dad.

Only later would I realize how unforgettable they would become.

We arrived home from church after the Sunday evening service and were amazed at the large amount of gifts that Santa Claus (or his helpers) had left piled under the Christmas tree.

Seventeen-year-old Jeff reluctantly agreed to play "Santa" and pass out the presents to the circle of people in the living room. Craig sat with his girlfriend, Dianna, who had joined the Bradley clan for the annual Christmas Eve gift-giving.

We've been opening our gifts on Christmas Eve for about four or five years now. But it wasn't always that way. When the boys were younger, we'd wait for them to wake up in the early dawn and dash wide-eyed for the toys and other presents under the tree in the living room.

Lately, it seems, with our three sons grown into young men, Santa makes our house one of his first stops on Christmas Eve. And we feel that it's better to open the presents on Christmas Eve and then sleep in a little later on Christmas morning. (I really think it's only fair — considering all the sleep we lost on earlier Christmas mornings when the boys were young and got up before the sun).

But I must admit that my wife and I miss that early morning magic and excitement when young tots spring from their beds and eagerly sprint to see what Santa has left for them.

And much of the thrill and excitement came in making sure the kids didn't see the presents beforehand and also that they didn't spot "Santa" placing the toys under the Christmas tree.

Because that was the real challenge, to make sure that the youngsters' eagle eyes didn't see the gifts being put in place. The older they got, the more difficult it became to elude their prying eyes.

Looking back to my childhood, I stand in amazement how "Santa" always managed to pay his annual visit without me seeing him. I can remember one year — I was about 12 years old — when I mapped out a plan that would once and for all prove whether this famous red-suited man really came or if my parents placed the gifts under the tree for him.

This would be my year to play detective. Following carefully laid plans, I slipped out of my upstairs bed and tip-toed across the floor in my soft slippers.

The clock read about 3 a.m. and my heart was pounding so loud with excitement that I thought it would be heard between the narrow walls of the stairwell. Slowly I turned the door knob in the pitch darkness, fearing to even turn on the light and divulge my devious plan to catch "Santa" at work.

Opening the door just far enough to slip my slender frame through, I padded softly across the hallway carpet and into the living room. Much to my surprise and chagrin, there were no presents under the tree!

I felt I had been outwitted and was a little embarrassed as I retraced my steps quickly through the shadowy darkness, mounted the stairs and flopped back into bed. Had I been wrong after all? Did I misread the kindly twinkle-eyed jolly man with eight tiny reindeer?

It couldn't have been much more than an hour later that I woke up and descended the stairs once again, this time with mixed emotions. I opened the upstairs door and glanced over at the Christmas tree that was bathed in early morning light.

There, beautifully placed under the evergreen, were toys and presents addressed to "Jimmie." I never did see "Santa" on any of his annual visits and my parents never told me what time he came, either!

My sons told me in their younger days that they "knew" when Santa came and put the gifts under the tree. But I think they were just pulling my leg.

My wandering thoughts returned to this Christmas Eve and the two gifts Pansy and I had been told to leave until last. Filled with a child's impatience, we finally reached the two large boxes and opened them.

One contained a beautiful hanging lamp for the living room and the other was a battery-operated, woodgrain large clock with swinging pendulum. The clock chimed once for each hour of the day it showed on the face. It also chimed once on the half-hour.

We hung the chime clock on the living room wall Christmas Day and enjoyed hearing the number of times it loudly chimed during the evening. However, after I went to bed, I heard it chime once for 1 a.m., then I heard it chime twice.

I just couldn't go to sleep, it seemed. I turned and tossed trying to doze off. Through the early morning darkness I heard the clock strike three chimes and a little later my ears heard it strike four times.

It was one of the most sleepless Christmas nights I've ever spent. Now, I love that clock and it's just beautiful — even to the chimes. But I couldn't help but think maybe "someone" was trying to take away some of the sleep I'd gotten the last few years by sleeping in Christmas mornings.

As I sleepily got up to go to work Tuesday morning, I passed Craig's bedroom. He seemed to have a peaceful smile (or was it a grin?) on his face as he was deep in slumber.

Oh well, whatever the answer, next year I'll be ahead of the game. I'll have the hanging lamp and the chiming clock next Christmas Eve to help me stay awake and see if I can catch Santa when he comes!

Guest Editorial

By PAT BABCOCK
Director, Michigan Department of Labor

To say that we are at a crisis point in the Michigan Workers' Compensation system borders on gross oversimplification.

When Governor Milliken called for balanced, comprehensive legislative reform of the Workers' Compensation system nearly four years ago, he noted that the dual purpose of the system — adequate protection of disabled workers without undue or unfair hardship on the employer — was not being met.

It still isn't.

The only change that has occurred in Workers' Compensation since the Governor called for reform is a dramatic 46 percent increase in employer premium rates without any apparent benefit improvement to injured workers or cost relief to the business community.

Employers who are forced to pay increased premiums pass that cost along to the consumers.

And, businesses find themselves increasingly non-competitive with firms in other states.

In preparing the Department of Labor's legislative priority list for the next session which begins in January, workers' compensation reform was again at the top.

I had hoped that the reform we so badly need would have been accomplished during the 1978 legislative session.

Senate Bill 1285, introduced with bipartisan support, is the closest we have come to achieving reform. That bill died in a Senate committee, but I predict that it will be used as a model for workers' compensation reform in the 1979 legislative session.

Reform legislation will not be acceptable to this administration unless it truly addresses the problems of both workers and employers.

It must be balanced by:

— Addressing the retiree problem, which drains about $90 million annually from legitimately injured workers. Provisions in the current statute allow retirees to collect workers' compensation benefits and pension benefits at the same time while their job related injury claims are suspect in the first place.

— Establishing an effective statute of limitations of three years following reasonable knowledge of the condition.

— Imposing reasonable minimum benefit levels.

— Coordinating benefits such as social security and pensions.

— Establishing maximum workers' compensation rates that are reflective of the state average weekly wage.

— Providing financial relief to offset retroactive changes in the cost of living.

— Providing comprehensive vocational rehabilitation that would enable injured workers to return to gainful employment.

Finally, reform legislation must include other amendments to return workers' compensation to its original intent — that of providing assistance to employees who have become disabled because of conditions arising out of and during the course of their employment.

If we are going to be successful, we are going to need the active involvement of both labor and business.

All parties must be willing to establish their bottom line and negotiate in good faith.

The question of workers' compensation is too serious to our state's economy and to injured men and women for further political posturing.

We simply cannot afford three more years of inaction on this issue.

While continuing to press for legislative reform, we are taking administrative steps to correct inequities in the current program.

I frankly find it intolerable that contested cases take nearly 16 months at the bureau and 28 months at the appeal board before administrative resolution, and that more than 3,400 cases are currently in backlog.

We are conducting a comprehensive review and overhaul of case handling procedures and we are currently working on alternatives to address our problems in this area subject to legislative and executive approval.

Our objective is to reduce the case backlog to nine months at the bureau and 15 months at the appeal board and we intend to accomplish this objective by:

— Computerization of the docket.
— Use of para-legals and mediators.
— Development of pre-trial procedures.
— Development of grounds for case dismissal.

To complement this project, the legislature has adopted P.A. 456 of 1978 which increased the appeal board from 11 to 15 members and reduced individual appeal panels from 5 to 3 members.

Another problem we have identified is the lack of necessary management data for policy decisions.

In fact, the bureau records management system is presently manual which presents obvious difficulties in gathering information from individual employee files — difficulties which have impeded our ability to assess the impact of previous legislative proposals.

We have reviewed the bureau operations and determined the management information needed and have designed automated systems to gather that data.

It is anticipated that initial collection of data for case management will begin January 1, and that all systems will be automated by October 1, 1981.

VA has profile on Vietnam vets

A new statistical profile of the 8.7 million men and women in military service during the Vietnam Era is available in a Veterans Administration (VA) report, "Data on Vietnam Era Veterans."

The report reveals that VA re-adjustment programs and other benefits for this youngest group of veterans amounted to $6 billion during the last fiscal year. More than $40 billion has been spent during the 14 years since the beginning of the Vietnam Era.

VA's total budget for all programs for nearly 30 million veterans of all wars was $18.4 billion last fiscal year.

Education assistance payments for Vietnam veterans consumed more than half of the $40 billion total spent since 1965 on Vietnam veterans' programs.

"Because Vietnam Era veterans are the best educated group of veterans in the nation's history," VA chief Max Cleland said, "they have outstripped both World War II and Korean Conflict veterans in their use of the GI Bill education program."

Nearly 65 percent of the Vietnam veterans used their education benefits compared to 50 percent after WWII and 43.4 percent after the Korean Conflict.

"More Vietnam veterans have used the GI Bill for college than the total for WWII and Korean Conflict combined," Cleland pointed out.

Compensation and pension payments comprise the second largest VA expenditure to Vietnam Era veterans, a total of almost $8.1 billion through 1978.

Medical care expenditures for Vietnam Era veterans have amounted to $3.1 billion through 1978.

The report shows that California leads the nation in the number of Vietnam Era veterans — 981,000 call it home. New York State is next, with 605,000; followed by Texas, with half a million; Pennsylvania, with 480,000; Ohio, with 441,000; and Illinois, with 423,000. Wyoming has fewer Vietnam Era veterans than any other state, with 14,000.

"While the great majority of these young Americans have taken military service and the return to civilian life in stride," Cleland said, "our continuing concern is for those whose traumatic experiences during combat have made readjustment difficult."

Cleland, himself a severely disabled veteran of the Vietnam war, pointed out that nearly 30,000 Vietnam veterans were totally disabled and that more than 500,000 have some degree of disability.

Study shows need for aid for districts

The results of a comprehensive school enrollment study underscore the legislature's responsibility to fully and equitably fund districts with severe declining enrollments, according to State Rep. Robert Law (R-36th District).

"If the state had been making enrollment projections 10, 15 or 20 years ago, many school districts would not have overbuilt and would not be facing the problems of vacant buildings and school closings now," Law said. "Many districts, such as Livonia, Westland and Redford, have made great progress in refining their ability to predict changes in student enrollment. We must help districts throughout the state and continue to supply information in this regard."

The study, conducted by Michigan State University, projected that school enrollment will decline as much as 14 percent by the year 1983.

"We have been particularly hard hit by declining enrollments in Livonia, Westland and Redford Township, and the legislature simply has to come up with a sound method of financing these districts and others like them," Law said. "Closing schools and vacating buildings cause disruptions in neighborhoods, and I think the projections made in this study will enable districts to plan for the future development of their educational programs."

Law said the Governor and legislature can begin to study possible solutions to the problem of funding of education.

New breed: All-Area swimmers

They're a new breed, these All-Area swimmers. Girls who translate their graceful movements in the pool into records and league championships.

They'll sacrifice their personal time for literally hundreds of laps in the water, realizing that there is little glory at the end of the practice session.

These are the girls whose pictures embrace these pages, belatedly honored for their contributions to their school, and their team, who are credits to their coaches.

And, of the 25 or more girls singled out for The Associated Newspapers' Third Annual All-Area Team, many are destined to become the stars in colleges and universities across the nation.

Plymouth dominates this year's selections - the Rocks and Coach Chuck Olson have such outstanding performers as Jill McCann, Sue Evans, Sarah Stanwood, Rene Lakatos, Natalie McClumpha, Sharon Ross and Kim Coates.

Canton's contribution to this year's All-Area club include: Cindy Shelanskey, Sue Knight, Lisa Forsythe and Kim Massey.

COATES - A FREESTYLER who concentrated on the 200 and 500 events, Miss Coates ended her high school swimming career with a fifth place medal and a second place medal, respectively, in the league. Honored as the Most Improved, Kim qualified for the state as a member of the outstanding Rock freestyle relay team - and she will be missed by her teammates when competition resumes next season.

DISCHER - One of the finest swimmers to swim for Wayne Memorial, Miss Discher owns the school records for the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly and she also help set records in the 200-yard medley and the 400-yard freestyle relays. A senior and captain of Coach Jim McPartlin's team, Teri is also an outstanding student.

KELLY BATTERSON - She's also a senior who, with Miss Discher, had the responsibility of captaining the Zebras for the past two years. An All-Area, All-Great Lakes 8 Conference performer for two years, Miss Batterson holds school records in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events and also help set a new mark for the freestyle relay event.

"Kelly is a very dedicated swimmer," said Coach McPartlin. "I hate to see her leave." No, tears, Jim, you still have Gretchen.

GRETCHEN BATTERSON - A junior with a couple of years of varsity experience behind her, Miss Batterson rewrote the record books for the 500-yard freestyle and used her freestyle ability to help establish a record for the 400-yard freestyle relay.

A hard-worker in both the classroom and the pool, Gretchen will be a key factor in next year's campaign when the Zebras will challenge Monroe for the Great Lakes 8 Conference title.

MILES - A sophomore with a lot of potential, Lori is also picked as an all-conference performer in the butterfly event.

"If she continues to work as hard as she has during the past," pointed out McPartlin, "Lori will develop into a great swimmer. She has the potential and the versatility to do the job."

LOPEZ - Though a sophomore, Miss Lopez already has her name in the record books as a member of the 400-yard freestyle relay team. All-Area and all-conference accolades are just a couple of honors that she received for her dazzling efforts this season. And, remember the name, because she'll be around for the next two years.

Wayne's freestyle relay team of Lopez, Discher, Kelly and Gretchen Batterson was second only to Salem's whose 3:56.4 turned in by Ross, McCann, Coates and Stanwood was the finest in the area.

Salem also had the best 200-yard medley team in the Sub 8 and the area thanks to McCann, Evans, Lakatos and Stanwood who turned in a 2:03.1. Neighbor, Canton, had the second best time for the event as Cindy Shelanskey, Sue Knight, Lisa Forsythe and Kim Massey carded a 2:07.0.

MASSEY - Probably the best sophomore in the school's history, Miss Massey has a score of records to back up the statement. She owns the 200 and 500 yard freestyle records, and also has the 100 yard breaststroke varsity and freshmen records. Kim, whose mother, Ann also happens to be the Canton coach, has helped the Chiefs' establish records in both relays. Her abilities are not limited to the pool as Miss Massey also has a 3.5 grade point

Wayne's contribution to kickboxing

Unpretentious, Wayne's Roger Hurd doesn't come off as a masochist, but the Mike Rossman-type ex-U.S. Marine admits he has broken his nose six times in the boxing rink, and he still goes back for more.

The 26-year-old soft-spoken former Wayne Memorial athlete isn't an ordinary boxer. In fact, when Roger goes into the rink he goes in swinging and kicking.

Yes, kicking.

Hurd is a member of that elite group of boxers who compete in that little known and little publicized sport - "Full contact kickboxing." It's a sport where you have to watch out for the fists as well as the bare feet.

Hurd is a pro and on January 6 at 7 p.m. he'll enter the ring and take on Kerry Roop, a pro world rated kickboxer, in Macomb County Community Center Fieldhouse in Warren.

The two will be fighting it out for a purse of $1,500, the prize going to the boxer who lasts the five two-minute rounds.

An owner of a Black Belt, Hurd is a middleweight division contender whose resourcefulness as an athlete demanded something more than "just karate."

"Kickboxing is exciting," said Hurd. "I was dissatisfied with Black Belt competition and sort of drifted into the sport and I really got hooked on it."

"In fact, once every month I fly down to Alabama for consultations with my trainer," Hurd continued. "I'm there a week and we have a strict training program."

Flying back-and-forth to Alabama can cost a person a neat chunk of money - is there money to be made from professional kickboxing?

"As in about anything, if you're good, you can make a good living from it," Hurd said.

Though he has absorbed six broken noses in the ring, Hurb points out that he has never been knocked out. Inside the ring, the matchup between antagonist and protagonist is similar to regular boxing, with the exception that the boxers are barefooted.

"We wear boxing gloves and once inside the rings just about anything can happen. You have to be aware of your opponent's entire body for the attack can come from just about anywhere."

A 1971 graduate of Wayne Memorial, Hurd enlisted in the Marines and when he was stationed in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba he became interested in karate.

Cuba?

"Oh, yes, but that's a different story," says Hurd. "I don't like mixing athletics with politics."

Tigers and LeFlore on the loose

From Belleville comes this bit of news - the Tigers, the Detroit Tigers, that is - are coming to town. And they're coming to help Belleville High's swim program, says Coach Sam Vicchy.

Ron LeFlore, who Jim Hawkins of The Detroit Free Press made famous, along with a hosts of other Tiger players will be playing a benefit basketball game on Wednesday, January 10, 7:30 p.m. in the Belleville gym.

"The proceeds from the game will help the swimming program," said Vicchy, "and we'd like everyone to come out and have some fun."

The Tigers will be taking on a faculty team and, if past performances between the two teams are any indications about what fans can expect, then expect a rough-and-tumbling affair.

Oh, you can pick up tickets at the high school office or ask members of the varsity swim squad.

Stars play basketball

Speaking of benefits and basketball games, Fred Smiley, the former All-American from Northwood Institute in Midland and ex-All-Stater from Inkster reported in the other day and said that the Lafayette Allen Sr. Boys' Club is $5,000 richer.

Smiley and his Stingers took on Dave Bing and his Stars to help raise some money to aid the financially-hurting Boys Club in Inkster.

"We had a packed home for the game," said Smiley whose 30 points didn't stop Bing and his teammates from edging his hosts, Lana Frye, and Cindy West. Rounding out the team are Livonia Churchill's standout performers Jackie Rudolph, Jeanne Gessler and Livonia Franklin's Martha Klein.

McCANN - A Suburban 8 Conference champ for the past two years in the 100-yard backstroke, Miss McCann has been a state meet qualifier in her specialty as well as in the 400-yard freestyle relay. She has been clocked in 1:05 for the backstroke, a performance that a lot of the boys would envy. Jill is also a solid individual medley performer, according to coach Chuck Olson, and her versatility helped Salem capture the conference championship for the third consecutive year. Miss McCann also was the recipient of the "Coaches' Award" this season.

EVANS - Miss Evans was one of the top 100-yard breaststroke in this area and also contributed much to the Rocks' championship season. She was a finalist in both the breaststroke and the 100-yard butterfly in the conference, accounting for sixth place finishes in both events. Miss Evans also will be returning to the lineup next year as she is only a junior.

STANWOOD - A sophomore who has still two years of eligibility ahead of her, Miss Stanwood has earned a gold medal in the Sub 8 for her sterling efforts in the 100-yard individual medley, the 100-yard freestyle and also as a member of the record-setting 400-yard freestyle relay team. Sarah qualified for the state finals in the 50, 100 and 200 yard freestyles and her acuity in the pool also includes being a top-notch 200-yard individual medley performer and swims the 100 butterfly. Miss Stanwood's multi-talents earned for her the Most Valuable Swimmer Award at Plymouth Salem for 1978.

LAKATOS - Another underclassman, Miss Lakatos had been primarily a backstroke for the past two years, but this year she also was used as a freestyler, and placed fourth in the 100-backstroke, and ninth in the 100 freestyle at the Sub 8 Championships. Rene has also been picked as one of the Rocks' co-captains for the 1979 swim team.

McCLUMPHA - Consistency has provided Miss McCumpha the basis to develop into one of the best divers in the area. Natalie placed fifth in conference diving competition, then went on to the regional and qualified for the state where she finished 36 among Michigan's top divers.

ROSS - A strong competitor, Miss Ross' 5:29.8 qualified her for the state finals in the 500-yard freestyle. She is efficient in all strokes and Coach Olson called upon her whenever a crucial point was needed. Miss Ross also went to the state with the 400 yard freestyle relay and placed second at the league in the 200-yard freestyle and the 100 yard butterfly. Sharon was a member of the winning freestyle relay team. Chosen as one of the captains for next year, Miss Ross could become one of the top performers in the state a year from now.

average and is president of the sophomore class. Kim placed third in the 200 freestyle, second in the 500 yard freestyle in the Western Six Conference.

ZUVERINK - As a junior, Miss Zuerink qualified for the regional diving competition after finishing sixth in the Western Six Conference. Jamie also picked up six first places during the dual meet season and holds the freshman record for 11 dives and varsity record for six dives.

FORSYTHE - A rare talent, Lisa is only a freshman and has already made her mark in the record books. She holds the 200-yard individual medley, 50-yard freestyle, 100 yard freestyle varsity and freshmen records. Her time for the 100 free is an enviable 59.0 seconds. Lisa also placed fourth in the 200 yard individual medley and fifth in the 100 yard butterfly during the league championships. A member of the record-holding freshmen freestyle record team, Miss Forsythe carries a 3.6 GPA.

LANG - One of the most versatile swimmers to compete for John Glenn, Miss Lang has participated in every event except the butterfly. In key situations, the 16-year-old junior came through for Coach Jim Lawrence's Rockets who figured in but didn't win the Northwest Suburban Conference championships. Kelly ended the year specializing in the 200 yard individual medley and the 500-yard freestyle. She finished fifth in both events at the conference finals.

WILBUR - One of three sparkling Glenn juniors, Mary also is multi-talented and swam a list of events before settling for the 200-yard freestyle and the 100 freestyle. She earned a fifth place ribbon in the league for her efforts, while she finished seventh in the 200 yard freestyle.

KEW - A 17-year-old junior, Miss Kew is considered as "one of the best all-around freestylers in Glenn's swim history," according to Coach Lawrence. In the 200-yard freestyle and 500-yard freestyle, Thelma's performances are the ones to beat, while she also has tied the 100-yard freestyle school mark. Miss Kew is the league champ in the 500-yard freestyle and she also was the runner-up in the 200-yard freestyle.

"All three girls were members of the 1977 team that won the league championship." Coach Lawrence said, "and we'll be counting on them heavily in 1979 when we hope to win the title."

RUDOLPH - A junior who holds a string of records, Miss Rudolph won the Western Six Conference championship in the 100-yard backstroke. However, Jackie also is a very capable distance freestyler as well as a butterfly. She holds the school records for the 500 freestyle (5:45.5) and the 100-yard butterfly (1:09.9).

GESSLER - Watch for her to become one of the top performers in the 100-yard breaststroke in the Western Six Conference next year. Jeanne is a junior who covers the distance in 1:14.7 and the Chargers will be relying on her heavily a year from now.

Undefeated Rocks stun Chiefs

Salem capitalizes on Canton miscues

Any rumors that the student would give the teacher a couple of lessons were dispelled when Plymouth Salem capitalized on an upstart Canton quintet's mistakes and reaffirmed its cage superiority 65-47.

The showdown between the "old pro" Fred Thomann of Salem and his former assistant, Craig Bell, who is in his first year as the Canton strategist, developed into the teacher continuing to teach and the student walking away in wonderment.

"I really don't think we stood in awe to them," Bell said after his Chiefs dropped its second game in seven starts. Canton beat Livonia Stevenson in the first round of the Livonia Churchill Christmas Classic, 64-53, while Salem put down Churchill without much difficulty.

"I think what happened was," continued Bell, "is that we made too many mistakes and they capitalized upon them. Also, though we shot evenly (26-26) with them from the field, we lost this game at the free throw line."

Salem slipped through 23 of 30 free throws as compared to Canton's five of nine.

Salem has now gone through seven games this season with an unblemished record. Thomann's Rocks resume play after the New Year on Jan. 5 when they hosts Walled Lake Central. The Chiefs, in the meantime, have until Jan. 9 to pick up the pieces. That's when they'll take on out of league rival, Farmington.

Canton gave its natural rival a lot to think about for eight minutes when it took an early five point lead, but the rocks closed the gap and came within one, 14-13, at the end of the initial quarter. They then sped ahead by six as Rich Hewlett & Co. outscored their city rivals 18-12 to go ahead 31-26 at halftime.

Salem's sticky man-to-man defense posed a problem for the Chiefs who could't break loose despite, sharpshooter Butch King, who had five of his points in the first period and finished with 10.

Canton failed to mobilize any sort of offense in the third period as well and the gap widened to 46-38 at the end of the stanza. With Howard Monk connecting on six consecutive free throws in the fourth period, Salem sewed up its seventh straight win.

Kevin Kelliher tossed in 13 points for the winners and Hewlett finished with 11. Monk and Owens also were in double figures with 10 each.

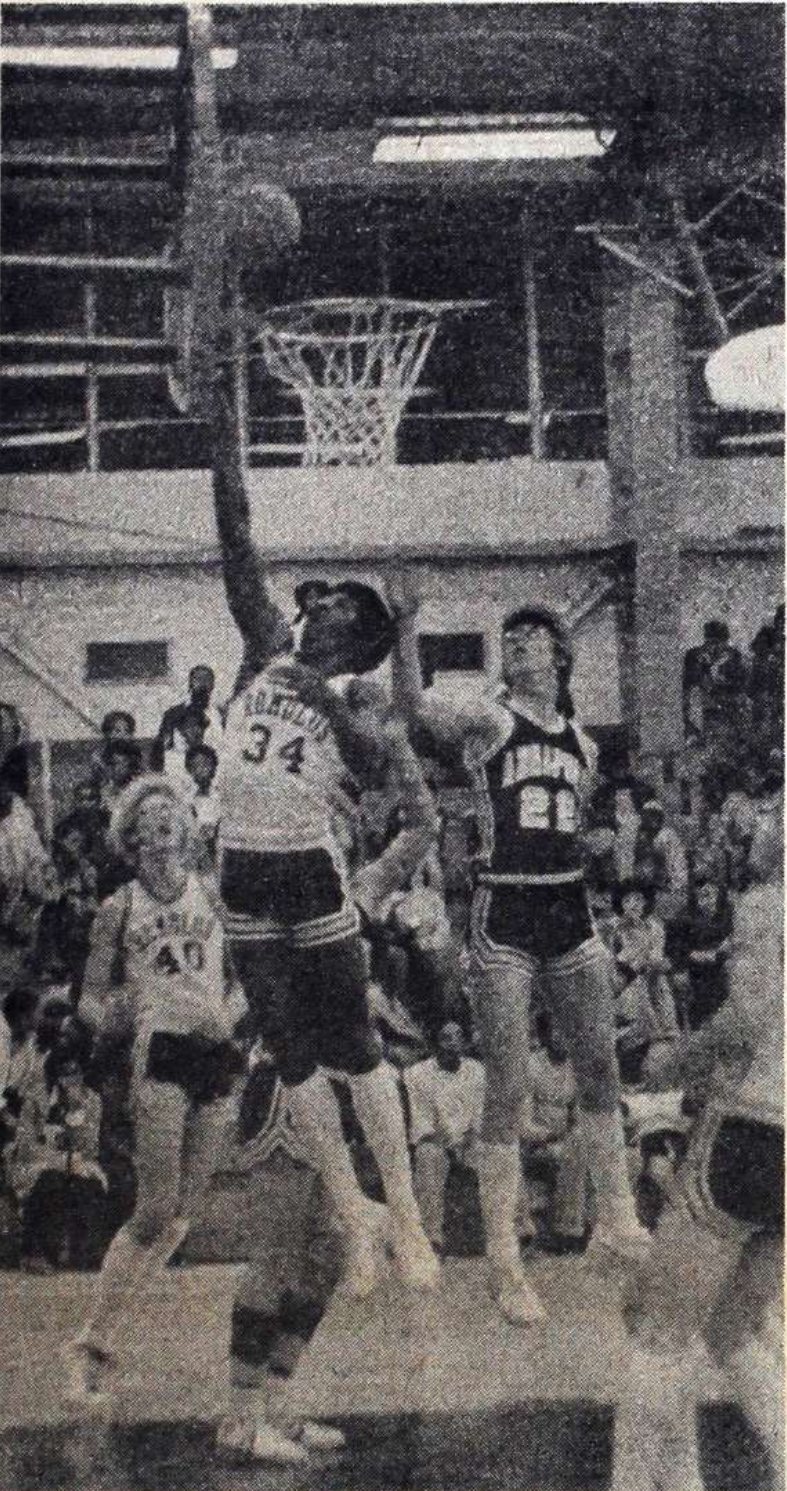

Canton's Rusty Mandle who departed from the duel prematurely because of personal fouls managed to lead his teammates with 11 points. King's 10 represented the only other double figures.

Canton jumped to an 18-9 first period lead before cruising to an overwhelming 64-53 victory over Stevenson.

Stevenson was no where in the game at intermission as the Chiefs built up a 34-18 lead, then outscored their rivals, 20-17, in the third as Bell managed to get all of his players in the game.

King topped the field with nine baskets and four of five from the foul line for 22 points. Mandle chipped in with 10.

Glenn claims 1st win over Wayne wrestlers

Times have changed. For the better for Westland John Glenn whose wrestlers claimed their first victory over arch-rival, Wayne Memorial, in a head-to-head matchup.

The Westlanders walked off their home mats to a 45-23 triumph over Coach John Wood's grapplers. It was the first setback by Glenn wrestlers to a Wayne team ever and the sophomore Wayne coach expressed his disappointment in his team's over-all performance.

"I'm bitterly disappointed," said Wood after the meet. "Glenn has never beaten us before until this year and, though we lost to a very tough and solid Glenn team, we should have done better."

Wood's and the Zebras apparently are desperate for help in the lower and upper weights. It was these weight classes that led to Wayne's demise and Glenn's victory, according to Wood's synopsis.

"We needed some of our wrestlers in the lower and upper weight classes to come through, but the plan just didn't materialize."

Glenn cleaned up the first four weight classes thanks to Pete Bologna (98), Paul Demers (105), Dwight Barclay (112), and Terry O'Neill (119) who contributed more than 20 points before Wayne struck

Wayne's volleyball title race is close

Deadlocked atop of the league, the Spikers and American Waste continue to look down the standings of the Mixed Volleyball League in Wayne.

Both teams have compiled 41-10 won-lost records and have a two-game edge on All-Star Sports and Snow White & The Seven Dwarfs who are 39-12 on the season.

Meanwhile, American Waste kept its share of the lead by sweeping three games from 11th place, Burroughs Blues. The Blues forfeited the first match to their rivals, then dropped sets of 15-10 and 15-11.

Snow White whistled through three sets with Studio Lounge, tuning up 15-7 in their first set, then coming back to win 15-8 and 15-4.

Jake's Lounge drew first blood in their match up with the Leftovers, but the Leftovers rallied and won the next two, 15-10, and 15-12, to take the series.

Hofbrau shook off Burroughs' Burros 16-14 in their initial set and then finished off their rivals 15-8 and 15-6 to move into seventh place.

All-Stars had their shot at one of the league-leaders, the Spikers, and missed their opportunity. The Spikers took the first set 15-9, but the All-Stars forced the issue into a three-setter when they managed to take the second set, 15-11. In the decisive third, the co-leaders emerged atop of a 15-9 score.

Romulus crushes Holy Redeemer

Clicking on all five sparkplugs, Romulus' cage machine rolled over Detroit Holy Redeemer 71-54 to tune up for the Ann Arbor Huron Holiday Tournament.

Coach Rod Hanna and the Eagles will be getting a look at one of the top teams in the state when they take on Royal Oak Shrine in the first round of the tournament. The two will begin the action at 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 29. The nightcap at 8 p.m. pits host Huron against Detroit Bishop Borgess.

The two winners will meet at 8 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 30 to decide the championship; the losers clash in a consolation game slated for 6 p.m.

"Shrine is an exceptional team that lost only one of its starters off of a club that won the Catholic League championship and the Detroit Public School playoff game," said Hanna. "They have a front line that includes third win in four starts. Romulus travels to Ann Arbor Huron Thursday night in quest of a Holiday Tournament title. Along with the host and the Eagles, teams from Bishop Borgess and Royal Oak will also compete.

Hanna also will be without the services of starting forward Dave Casey who checked into a hospital last week due to illness.

"I'm supposed to check with Dave's doctor today (Friday) to see how he's doing and learn when he'll be back with his team."

Holy Redeemer stayed with the visiting Eagles for eight minutes before Hanna's cagers erupted to a 22-12 second period to jump out in front 36-20 after leading by six, 14-8, after the initial period.

Vince Bean led the attack for the winners as he sank 22 points, eight of them coming in the decisive second. He also hauled down 20 rebounds, 11 from the offensive boards, a career high.

125-124. "And, I want to thank everyone in the area for responding the way they did. The fans, the sponsors and the players themselves showed what people can do working together."

If you're wondering if the Bing above is the same one who was shooting the eyes out of the nets a few years ago for the Detroit Pistons, the answer is, "Yes".

Dave put together a lineup which included such outstanding cagers as Don Adams, Willie Norwood, Jim Davis, Archie Clark and Bennie White. And Bing led the attack with 26 points and it was his jumper with two seconds left that decided the outcome of the game.

Smiley's side also was loaded with former prep talent. Such names that have embraced these pages in the past such as Earthe Faust, 26 points, Bill Kilgore, 18 points, and Gerald McClain, 18, were doing their thing again.

And, you just can't say enough for these men who would take time out from their busy lives to come to the aid of a club whose main goal is to make men out of boys.

Southgate surprises Huron, 85-74

A hot-shooting Southgate quintet caught New Boston Huron off guard and handed Coach Gene Smith's Chiefs a 85-74 setback last week.

"Southgate had a fantastic night from the floor, hitting on 50 percent of their shots," Coach Smith said. "And, though we were in the game most of the night, we just couldn't grab the lead away from them after falling behind midway in the first period."

What killed the Chiefs was a "four-point play" with three minutes left in the game.

Trailing by two at that point, Huron fell behind by six when Southgate cashed in on a pair of free throws, then got an additional two from a one-and-one situation when a Huron cager was detected using too much of his elbow attempting to retrieve a rebound.

Southgate led 15-18 in the first period and enjoyed a 40-31 halftime advantage. Though the Chiefs outscored their out of league rivals by three, 23-20, in the third period they just couldn't muster up enough scoring power.

Huron's Randy Pichan kept his torrid scoring streak ablazing as he canned 10 from the field and hit on three of six from the foul line for 23 points. Teammate Jay Richert chipped in 18 on two of four free throws and eight direct hits from the field.

However, the two couldn't offset the Sabers' balanced attack which included Brian Moreno's game-high 26 points, Jeff Jaciuk's 20 and Al Long's 14.

Huron was to play Monroe Catholic Central Friday night, but because of an early holiday deadline, that game will not be featured until our next edition.

Wayne dunks Cherry Hill

McPartlin: 'Nice way to begin a season'

As a prep swimmers Wayne Beerbower knew that Wayne Memorial had an excellent program.

Now, as a rookie Cherry Hill coach, Beerbower learned the hard way that putting a lineup together to beat Jim McPartlin's Zebras isn't easy.

McPartlin tankers dunked Coach Beerbower's Spartans 103-68 to open up the 1978-1979 campaign. Beerbower, a former All-Area performer from Cherry Hill, replaced his ex-coach, Jerry Pawloski, at the helm of the Spartan swim machine which had won a dozen league championships in the past.

Wayne's Dave Hills accounted for two of the eight Zebra first places and also helped win the 400-yard freestyle. The 17-year-old senior turned in a 1:51.0 in winning the 200-yard freestyle, and also earned a first for his 52.3 effort in the 100-yard freestyle.

Hills, John Lewandowski, Steve Matheny and Joe Porta combined on a 3:42.5 as Wayne finished 1-2 for the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Cherry Hill managed to pick up three first places with Tracy Hissong leading Wayne swimmers Tim Butler and Don Bolton to the wire in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:09.9). Ramone Lara and Dave Linden placed 1-2 for the 500-yard freestyle and teammate Curt McNamara led Zebras Lewandowski and Mark Gallaher to the finish in the 100-yard butterfly.

Walker wins gold medal in skiing

Ken Walker, a veteran skier from Wayne, started the regular NASTAR competitive skiing racing off by winning a gold medal over the past weekend at Caberfae Ski Resort near Cadillac.

Competing in the men's 50-59 division, Walker was timed in 31.5 for a gold medal, beating out Jack Snider, who was clocked in 31.1. Medals are awarded on time basis and the skiers' handicap in the national NASTAR rankings.

NASTAR races are held every Saturday afternoon at Caberfae and on a daily basis during the holiday week.

Walker has been racing in the NASTAR program for the past three winters.

with 126-pounder Frank Turgeon who won on a fall over Dave Gillies for the Zebras' first six-points.

Wayne also received victories from Bob Payton (132), Lou Toarmina (138), Steve Pintar (145) and Dave Lusk (165) who happens to be Glenn Coach Bob Lusk's son.

Glenn came back to clean up the rest of the bouts to post the historic win.

When Wayne took on Taylor Truman (above) in the Great Lakes 8 Conference opener a couple of weeks ago, the Zebras were riding high, jolting the defending champ and carding their first win of the campaign. But Coach Steve Schwartz' minion have fallen on hard times as they have now lost two consecutive league tilts. Schwartz and the Zebras hope to recover from their doldrums during the Holiday Tournament they will host. The tournament pits Westland John Glenn against Belleville at 6 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 27 and Wayne has the 8 p.m. game that night against Cherry Hill. The two winners meet the following night at 8 p.m. to decide the championship; the losers play in a 6 p.m. consolation round.

MIKE BROOME

Broome earns Hillsdale grid stripe

Ex-Franklin High All-Area gridder, Mike Broome, son of Bill and Kathy Krunberg, 7783 Carrousel, recently finished his rookie season for the Hillsdale Chargers football squad.

Broome was a starter at the offensive tackle position.

With the help of Broome's contributions, the Hillsdale offense averaged 213 yards per game on the ground and another 86 yards through the air, including a high game of 512 yards against St. Norbert College.

As a result of Broome's efforts, the former Livonia Franklin multi-talented athlete has been awarded his first varsity letter this year.

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Although suggestions for the get-it-off-your-chest (pet peeve) department continue to roll in, we're going to tuck 'em away for this Wednesday between the two most celebrated and joyous holidays of the year.

And, rather than sounding like Scrooge or the Grinch that stole Christmas, we've compiled a few of our FAVORITE things in contrast (and if that "sounds" like a play on a song title, it's intentional!)

If only time didn't put such a crimp on ideas, we'd like to have discussed this with YOU and included YOUR seasonal joys as well. We've a feeling, tho, that some of our small pleasures will strike a familiar chord in your feelings.

With the debut of holiday "me we always enjoy hearing (admittedly, a bit sadly) "The Christmas Song" by Nat King Cole and, of course, "White Christmas" by the one-and-only.

No brown paper packages tied up with string but, oh-h, such pretty packages prepared by Susie and Carol under our tree, that chubby Scotch pine with its wonderful woodsy aroma... the smell, sounds and flickering glow from the wood fire touched off earlier and earlier each day of the season... fresh holly in a milk glass bowl... apothecary jars beribboned in checked gingham holding each person's special candy... the manger scene from Grandma Hudge atop the TV set... the bowl of mixed nuts on the coffee table.

(Do you, too, sit back when you've completed your decorating and say "My, but this is pretty"?)

Perry Como's delightful, lo-keyed Christmas show... Charlie Brown's appearance each December... Carol's infectious enthusiasm for EVERYTHING... special notes and letters (some completely unexpected) tucked in our Christmas cards (LOVED yours, Mrs. McM.)... Susie at the piano, a bit rusty, but filling the house with Yuletide sounds... surprise packages being delivered (one always from a certain married pair in Illinois)... eggnog with freshly-grated nutmeg.

A delicate snowfall on Christmas Eve... midnight mass... our family together on Christmas Day... Lu and Sue playing piano duets... homemade nutty fudge... good friends dropping by and extending invitations to do likewise.

Then, too, there are the things and occasions we miss now that our trio has reached adulthood. For instance — those exciting trips to Hudson's downtown for chats with Santa and lunch in the 13th floor dining room where the girls got to choose from a special kiddie menu always topped with an ice cream cone clown and where they went away with little bags filled with goodies... we miss that wonderful old Ford Rotunda with its play of pastel lights and the fairyland created in its womb each holiday... seeing Detroit Aglow from across the river — in Windsor — before the big ecology squeeze... watching our trio in their Dr. Denton's on Christmas morn; their hair in "rags" for later day curls... something to assemble on Christmas Eve... buying dolls (and please, God, at least ONE granddaughter when you decide to give us grandchildren.)

Among our correspondence this week was a very nice letter from a reader in Romulus which pertained to my mention of the artist, Andrew Wyeth, in a former 'potpourri' column. In it I'd discoursed about my "pipe dream" — owning an original piece of work, ANY piece by the famous New Englander.

I'd just been to the library and had come home with a terrific book, "Wyeth at Kuerner's" — a volume of reproductions of his work — and was recommending it to others who might share my enthusiasm for that particular artist.

Our Romulus writer, Sandra Strubel, told us her parents have lived in Maine for nearly 20 years and during that time had a gift shop and then a sandwich shop in which Andrew Wyeth and his wife, Betsy, were a familiar sight. And that at one time Wyeth used their summer cottage on the St. George River as the subject for one of his watercolors. It was later a gift to a doctor friend of Wyeth's from Pennsylvania who was renting the place at the time.

The purpose of Mrs. Strubel's letter was to enclose a tear sheet from the Maine Sunday Telegram which her parents had sent. Featuring several of Wyeth's famous "Christina" pictures, the story went on to tote a new publication, "Two Worlds of Andrew Wyeth; A Conversation with Andrew Wyeth" by Thomas Noving, which she thought might be of interest to me and, in turn, to other Wyeth fans.

I just think it's rather exciting that someone from this area actually has contact (be it ever so distant) with someone I so highly admire.

Mrs. Strubel also tells us that since her husband is a beekeeper she tries to use honey in her baking whenever possible. And, she was kind enough to include one of her favorite recipes for us all to try.

HONEY PECAN BUTTERBALLS

1 cup butter
¼ cup honey
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups finely chopped pecans
confectioner's sugar
Cream butter, gradually adding honey and beat well. Stir in flour, salt and vanilla. Mix well. Add nuts. Form into very small balls and place on greased baking sheets. Bake at 300 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Roll in confectioner's sugar while still hot. Cool and roll again in sugar. Makes 6 dozen.

It's been a really gratifying week ('tis the season —) what with your calls, notes and many, many comments on 'potpourri'. It means so much to hear what you like and dislike and to make YOUR contributions an important part of this column.

Another reader and good friend, Millie Baker (whose reaction to a recent item had us both chuckling) sent me a couple recipes that sound so good you might want to include them in your entertaining plans for this big weekend coming up.

VEGETABLE DIP

1 pint miracle whip
¼ cup French dressing (orange)
1 large onion, grated
2 drops tabasco sauce
Mix together, season with salt and serve with cauliflower, carrots and other raw vegetables.

NIPPY CHEESE BALLS

1 lb. sharp cheddar cheese
¾ lb. American cheese
¾ cup mayonnaise
one-sixth cup worcestershire sauce
1½ tablespoons paprika
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
3 dashes liquid hot pepper sauce
½ teaspoon onion juice
paprika
finely chopped parsley
Grind cheeses in food grinder. Allow mixture to reach room temperature. Stir in next seven ingredients. Form into small balls the size of walnuts or into one or two large balls. Dip one end of each small ball into paprika, the other end into parsley. If you make one large ball, this can be rolled in either paprika or parsley. This recipe was cut down to serve about 30 people but can be doubled or tripled as so desired.

Again, many thanks and the best for the new year to the aforementioned and also M.R., G.M., V.T., L.S., B.H. and P.G. for your helpful comments and advice.

THE BOTTOM LINE: From all of us here at the Enterprise-Roman office in Belleville — Diane, Bert, Bob and yours truly — a blessed 1979 filled with whatever it is you might be hoping or praying for. HAPPY NEW YEAR!

On the seventh day of Christmas . . . .

You're getting ready for January 1st — the Seventh Day of Christmas — and the first breakfast of the brand new year. Add a touch of newness to the breakfast table with Coconut Praline Toast and Coconut Butterscotch Rolls.

both easy to prepare. Tender flaked coconut is the accent on both breads, one using packaged hot roll mix and another using slices of white bread. (Photo courtesy Baker's Angel Flake coconut.)

A New Year treat

It's here — the holiday season and its special mood. You've been looking forward to the traditional Twelve Days of Christmas that started the day after December 25.

Why? It's an ideal time to extend "drop-in" invitations to the folks next door. The hectic holidays will be almost over and you can relax more.

Why not make it a late-morning breakfast or coffee party on the Seventh Day of Christmas — January 1st? Bring on two bread sensations that prove really designed a special first-of-the-year menu. Coconut Praline Toast and Coconut Butter scotch Rolls complement everyday scrambled eggs and bacon. Both recipes have a delectable combination of Baker's Angel Flake coconut, brown sugar and butter or margarine as filling or topping.

Packaged hot roll mix is the basis for the pinwheel yeast rolls recipe which produces two dozen mouthwatering treats. Slices of white bread are the starting point for praline toast, which has an almost candy-like topping. Here's an economical way to use bread when it's not quite as positively fresh as you'd like it.

Even if you anticipate baking additional batches of these heavenly hot bread morsels for more holiday company, be sure to store flaked coconut properly. The coconut will remain moist and tasty longer if stored in the refrigerator in its own tightly reclosed package or covered container.

Coconut Praline Toast

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar

2 tbsp. lt. cream or half and half
¼ tsp. vanilla
½ cup flaked coconut
8 slices white bread

Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat and add sugar, cream, vanilla and coconut. Mix well and cool 5 minutes. Toast bread slices on one side in preheated broiler. Spread coconut mixture to edge on untoasted side. Return to broiler and broil until topping is lightly browned, about 3 to 5 minutes. Cut each slice diagonally into thirds. Serve hot. Makes 24 pieces.

Note: For crispier toast, toast bread on both sides.

Coconut Butterscotch Rolls

1 package hot roll mix
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 and one third cups (about) flaked coconut

Prepare roll mix as directed on package. Divide dough in half. Knead each half on floured board and roll into a 12 x 8 inch rectangle. Cream butter; blend in brown sugar. Spread half the butter mixture on each rectangle and sprinkle each with ½ cup of the coconut. Starting at long side, roll dough tightly and pinch edges to seal. Cut into 1-inch slices. Sprinkle remaining one third cup coconut into greased muffin pans. Place rolls in pans, cut side down. Let stand in warm place until doubled in bulk. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve warm. Makes 2 dozen.

Romulus Senior Club No. 1 has holiday dinner-party

The Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1 held its annual Christmas dinner at Leright's Banquet Room in Westland Dec. 19. Special guests were Mayor Wilham Oakley and other city officials: Leonard Folmer, Mary Ann Banks, Beverly McAnnally, Fred (Junior) Block and Marie Debusscher as well as Santa Claus who passed out all the gifts. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Celeste Fisher's son, Orlando Patterson, a recording artist who sang two solos, "The Christmas Song" and "White Christmas". Mr.

and Mrs. Howell Kelly of Belleville followed with religious songs and Christmas duets and had all the members join in a holiday sing. First vice-president Helen Matewicz served as master of ceremonies for the occasion. The group wishes to thank Louise Buczkowski and others for their efforts in assembling all the gifts that were donated by local merchants and a special thank you to Donna Zavits of the recreation department. There will be no club meetings until Jan. 9, 1979 at which time the newly-elected club officers will be installed by Mayor Oakley.

The board of directors for 1979 will include David Ries, president; Susie Whitworth, 1st vice-president; Frank Wisniewski, 2nd vice-president; Dorothy Lalonde, secretary; Celia Renke, treasurer; Edna Maciejewski, financial secretary; Melissa Bell, social secretary; Dorothy Icenogle, Eva Harrison and Dorothy Anderson, trustees; and Charlie Kitzmiller and Walter Zalewski, sergeants-at-arm.

PEACE

May the joy of the season bless your New Year with health, prosperity, and happiness. Our many thanks to those who contribute their news items, and share their thoughts and ideas with us.

If a Christmas party for small fry is on your holiday schedule, Christmas Tree Cones are made to order. For each tree, frost a sugar cone with about 3 tablespoons thawed frozen whipped topping, tinted pale green with 1 drop of food coloring. Decorate with silver dragees and green sugar sprinkles and top with a star cut from a yellow gumdrop. Carefully place the tree on a slice of ice cream. Serve at once or store in freezer.

An interesting variation of this recipe is Christmas Wreaths. Instead of sugar cones, frost miniature doughnuts with the thawed whipped topping mixture, tinted pale green and decorate with small gumdrops. These wreaths may be served on slices of ice cream as well. Serve at once or store in freezer.

Dessert tips for the holiday hustle

Look to your pantry shelves, your breadbox, your refrigerator for numerous ways of transforming ordinary desserts into spectacular holiday fare.

If there's leftover cake, cut enough cake cubes to make 1-½ cups then fold into 1-½ cups thawed Birds Eye Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping and top with fresh fruit.

Or, for a colorful easy pan dessert, line a 9-inch square pan with whole graham crackers. Prepare Jell-O brand vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling (6-serving size) according to package directions, but reducing the milk to 2 cups. Let stand for 5 minutes then blend in 1 cup of thawed frozen whipped topping. Spread half this pudding mixture over the crackers. Add another layer of crackers. Prepare Jell-O brand vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling (6-serving size) according to package directions, but reducing the milk to 2 cups. Let stand for 5 minutes then blend in 1 cup of thawed frozen whipped topping. Spread half this pudding mixture over the crackers. Add another layer of crackers, top with remaining pudding and end with a final layer of crackers. You'll need 14 whole graham crackers in all. Spread 1 can (21 oz.) cherry pie filling over top layer of crackers and chill for 3 hours. Makes 9 servings.

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE R. CLARK

Debra Tackett, Bruce Clark married at St. Anthony's

A week-long honeymoon in Florida followed the recent marriage of Debra Ann Tackett of New Boston and Bruce R. Clark of Belleville. Since their return the newlyweds have been living at 5033 Willis Rd., Belleville.

Some 200 guests witnessed the double ring rite conducted by The Rev. John Kluka at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The Nov. 4 ceremony joined the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tackett of 37500 S. Huron, New Boston, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark of 8200 Hannan, Wayne.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride appeared in a toe-touching gown of white qiana designed in the empire mode with a high neckline above an illusion insert on the bodice and long sleeves, all accented with lace. She wore a silk illusion veil edged in matching scalloped lace and carried a cascade of white carnations, red roses, baby's breath and Boston fern.

Matron of honor was the bride's best friend, Deger Saner of Ann Arbor, who donned a long gown of mauve qiana styled with a sleeveless bodice covered by a high-necked pleated cape. She tucked sprigs of baby's breath in her hair and held a bouquet of carnations tipped in pink and wine interspersed with baby's breath.

Others in the bridal coterie were Cindy Clark from Ohio, Gail Clark of Ypsilanti and Beth Clark of Wayne, all sisters of the bridegroom, and Lorri Marszewski of Brighton.

Their dresses in wine qiana were identical to that worn by the honor attendant and their bouquets were comprised of wine tipped white carnations.

As her cousin's flowergirl, Audra Kennedy, seven, donned a little qiana frock to match that worn by the matron of honor. She tied her hair back with wine colored ribbon and held a white basket filled with a variety of flowers.

Seven-year-old Robbe Clark, brother of the bridegroom, carried out the role of ringbearer.

Norm Wisniewski of Belleville was asked to be best man. Others on the esquire side were Jim Jurwicz and Jim Good, both of Belleville; Brian Clark of Wayne, brother of the bridegroom, and Jeff Tackett of New Boston, brother of the bride.

The UAW Hall, Local 735, on Michigan Avenue was reserved for the reception which followed. The 400 guests were greeted by Mrs. Tackett in a long blue sleeveless gown with a sheer pleated companion cape. Her corsage was made of blue-tipped white carnations. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Clark, chose to wear a beige qiana gown with short flared sleeves. She, too, was presented with a carnation corsage, only in white.

The new Mrs. Clark, who works as a purchasing secretary for the University of Michigan, graduated from Huron High School and Dawn's Beauty College in Flat Rock in 1975. Her husband, a 1974 alumnus of Belleville High School, attended Henry Ford Community College and is now working at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors in Ypsilanti.

The bridegroom's parents played host at the rehearsal dinner held at Nickerson's in Belleville.

Or not at all

Feed wild birds all winter

Feeding wild birds can be an enjoyable and instructive experience. But if you doubt that you'll be willing or able to continue feeding at least through March, it's better for the birds if you don't start at all.

Gary Heilig, Washtenaw County Horticultural Agent at large explains that the neighborhood birds will become dependent on your feeder. If you suddenly quit feeding in midwinter, starvation could kill many of the birds.

"If you know you'll be going on a two-week vacation around Christmas, hold off feeding the birds until you get back rather than starting to feed and then stopping," Heilig suggests. "If you can't afford to feed the birds all winter — through the end of March, at least, or preferably through April — don't start at all."

Feeding birds can get expensive, he points out, especially if you decide to feed a highly varied mixture of seeds and other foods and fill the feeder whenever it's empty. Many people find the demand increases until they can no longer afford to buy the feed. They get discouraged and quit feeding. The birds are then forced to find another source of food, or starve.

"To avoid this, set up a budget for wild bird food and put the birds on a diet," Heilig suggests. "Decide how much you can afford to pay for feed through the winter. Make up an economy mixture of 50 percent sunflower seeds, 35 percent proso millet and 15 percent finely cracked corn and set up a feeding schedule: so many pounds every so many days. Then stick to it."

The corn-millet-sunflower seed mix will give you the most kinds of birds for the least money. You're almost sure to get English sparrows, starlings, blue jays, chickadees, cardinals, juncos, song sparrows. A host of other birds are very likely to patronize your feeder, including the chipping sparrow, goldfinch, titmouse, nuthatch, blackbird, cowbird, woodpecker, pine siskin, redpoll, purple finch, mourning dove and evening grosbeak. Feeding suet will attract still others, including kinglet and brown creeper. Cardinals will flock to a supply of flax seed, and this seed will attract finches.

If you want to offer something for every bird that might happen by, you'll need what Heilig calls the deluxe feed mixture. It contains corn, sunflower seeds, millets, milo, sorghum, oats, wheat, flax seed, peanut hearts, rice, barley, thistle seed, rape, suet, peanut butter, apples, raisins, cranberries, popped popcorn and bread scraps. Commercially prepared seed mixes make a good base for the deluxe feed, he notes.

To minimize seed waste, Heilig suggests establishing a separate feeding station stocked only with sunflower seeds. This will keep the larger birds that prefer them from dominating the main feeder and sweeping the other seeds aside as they search for sunflower seeds.

AN ELEGANT TOUCH...

For something just a bit different, try this rice dish to serve with pork chops or ham steak. Prepare four servings of Minute rice as directed on the package. Stir in 1/2 cup flaked coconut just before serving.

NOT SO ELEGANT, BUT DARN GOOD EATING!

Rice dishes have a lot going for them—especially if you use the kind of rice that's foolproof. It's also enriched and pre-cooked for quick and easy-to-prepare side dishes or all-in-one casserole entrees.

On an evening when you're really rushed, try this Carefree Tuna Casserole. Combine a 10-3/4-ounce can of condensed cream of mushroom soup and 1-1/4 cups water in a saucepan. Bring just to a boil, stirring occasionally. Stir in 1-1/2 cups Minute rice; a 7-ounce can of tuna that's been drained and flaked; an 8-ounce can of peas, drained; and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Pour this mixture into a 1-1/2-quart casserole. Sprinkle with a 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese, cover, and bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. This amount will make about 4 servings. Complete your meal with a tossed green salad plus fruit and cookies for dessert.

PLANNED-OVERS... AN IDEAL WAY FOR BUSY PEOPLE TO BEHAVE!

The term "leftover" suggests a spur-of-the-moment effort to use up the odds and ends one can usually find in a refrigerator. In many cases, the results are just that...an odd and somewhat uninteresting dish. But if you plan a weekly menu, plan to transform the leftover meats and poultry into something more interesting and appealing. Curried Chicken or Turkey Rice is a case in point. Here's how to do it. Sauté 1-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey with 1/4 cup sliced scallions and 2 teaspoons curry powder in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Rice—so versatile—for simplicity or elegance

Stir constantly until scallions are tender. Add a 10-3/4-ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, 1-1/2 cups water and a 10-ounce package of frozen peas. Bring to a boil. Stir in 1-1/2 cups Minute rice. Cover and simmer 10 minutes or until almost all liquid is absorbed. This will make about 4 servings. A well-planned meal? You bet it is and easy, too!

Artificial light good for indoor plants

Michigan winters provide very little light for healthy growth of most indoor plants, say Washtenaw County horticulturists. One way to help is to provide artificial light, from either incandescent lamps or fluorescent tubes.

Flourescent tubes provide more light with less heat and use less electricity than incandescent lamps. They are necessary for flowering plants such as African Violets, Gloxinias, and Fibrous-rooted Begonias. Use half "Daylite" tubes and half "Soft White" tubes to provide a balance of different portions of the light spectrum.

Flourescent lamps can be placed as close as 12 inches from the pot rim of small flowering plants. The light remains effective two inches beyond the line directly under the edge of the flourescent lamp reflector.

Incandescent lamps can be used with foliage plants but the heat may cause distorted growth. Place incandescent lamps directly over the plants. A 1500-watt projector flood lamp placed about 10 feet above the rim of the plant container will provide adequate light for foliage plants in a five-foot circular pattern directly under the center of the lamp. A 200-watt incandescent lamp can be used on medium to short foliage plants when kept four feet from the plants.

Sixteen to 18 hours of artificial light is adequate for most indoor plants.

Some foliage plants that will grow well under artificial lighting are: Norfolk Island pine, rubber plant, fiddle-leaf fig, Kentia plant, philodendron pertusum—all tall (two to six feet); Chinese evergreen, cast iron plant, snake palant, Boston fern, fatschedera, Dracaena warneckei, Dracaena sanderiana—all medium (one to three feet tall); peperomia, variegated peperomia, pick-a-back plant—all short (one foot or less). Some vines are also suitable for artificial lighting. They are: English ivy, grape ivy, pothos, and philodendron.

Annual flowers and vegetables may be started from seed under artificial lighting. The seeds will germinate rapidly and uniformly under warm-white tubes kept six inches from the container for 16 hours a day. Maintain a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees F during the germination period. As soon as the true leaves are formed, transplant the seedlings about one and 1/2 inches apart. They can be grown to planting-out size under this light source without danger to the foliage when planted in full sun.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

There has been a recent trend in the United States toward giving local opera a chance. Traditionally, except for Gilbert and Sullivan, which is considered an operetta, operas have been in a foreign language, usually Italian. The only operas were the Great European operas, and practically the only place an American could go to hear opera would be New York City. But this kind of culture is spreading all over the country and there is more opportunity for young American composers to have a chance to try their skills.

Our staff at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 would like to have the opportunity to show you around our store and have you try out our fine selection of pianos and organs. We have a rental purchase plan available for you so you can try before you buy. Watch for our occasional specials. Master Charge, Visa and local bank financing.

HANDY HINT: Librettos, copies of the score of the opera, are often used when listening to an opera in another language.

California honeymoon follows Von Hatten-Saksewski vows

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting October 21 for the afternoon ceremony which joined Gail M. Saksewski of Belleville and David G. Von Hatten of Inkster in holy matrimony.

The Rev. John Klucka presided at the four thirty nuptials at which the young couple exchanged wedding vows and rings.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Stanley Saksewski of Belleville, the bride was escorted up the aisle by her father. For her wedding day she chose to wear a bouffant skirted gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a boat neckline and wristpoint sleeves sprinkled with sequins. Formed of tiers of lace, her skirt drifted into a chapel train as she walked.

A little crescent cap secured her silk illusion veil which was banded in lace and cut in fingertip length. A bouquet of white roses completed her bridal ensemble.

A polyester knit gown in apricot was worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. Chester Wojcik of Belleville. The littlefitted bodice was designed with a cowl neckline and cap sleeves and was attached to a long, pleated skirt. Her wide-brimmed hat was trimmed with a satin rose and her bouquet was comprised of mums and wood roses.

Similar outfits in spice color were worn by the quartet of bridesmaids: Mrs. Robert Saksewski of Belleville and Mrs. Anthony Von Hatten of Pinckney, sisters-in-law of the bride; Cheryl Smith of Ypsilanti, cousin of the bride; and Kathy Von Hatten of Pinckney, niece of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maitland of Pinckney are parents of the bridegroom who asked his brother, Anthony Von Hatten of Pinckney, to serve as best man. Groomsmen included Robert Saksewski of Belleville, the bride's brother; Alan Haslam of Ypsilanti; Samuel Rochon of Ypsilanti, the bride's cousin; and William Maitland of Pinckney, the bridegroom's brother.

Mrs. Saksewski wore for her daughter's wedding a full-length gown of apricot chiffon with sequin trim at the neckline and sleeves. A polyester gown of coral pink with chiffon cape sleeves was the choice of Mrs. Maitland for her son's wedding. Both mothers were honored with corsages of mums to harmonize with their dresses.

Some 350 guests greeted the newlyweds at the reception which followed at the PNA Hall. They later departed for a 2-weeks honeymoon in Los Angeles, Calif. and are now making their home in Inkster.

A graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Von Hatten is employed in Ypsilanti at the Credit Bureau. Her husband graduated from John Glenn High School and is now with Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. of Wayne.

Tips on poinsettia care

Your Christmas poinsettia will remain attractive longer if you follow these tips on selection and care from horticulturists at the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service.

Place the poinsettia near a sunny window, but don't let any part of the plant touch the cold glass.

Try to keep the temperature between 65 and 70 degrees F during the day and 60 to 65 degrees at night.

Keep poinsettia away from drafts. Do not place them near radiators, air registers or other heat sources, open windows or doors.

Water only when the soil feels dry. Soak the soil to the bottom of the pot and discard any excess water that drains out. Overwatering will cause the plant to yellow and drop leaves. Underwatering causes wilting and falling leaves.

Apply a soluble houseplant fertilizer once a month according to the manufacturer's directions.

In February or early March, cut the plant back to four to six inches in height and treat it like any other houseplant.

For more information concerning the care of poinsettias after Christmas, call the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service at 973-9510 and ask for bulletin E-554 entitled "Poinsettia".

Happy New Year TO ALL

Celebrate New Year with style

It's only a few short days away, and residents are finalizing plans for observing the start of 1979.

Be it at home or at parties, at dinner and a movie or watching the ball descend in Times Square via television, most everyone will be welcoming in the New Year.

And getting into the spirit of the New Year will be several area restaurants, which are offering special prices for an evening of fun and entertainment.

Hosts Bob and Billie Cuddeback will be welcoming holiday partygoers at their restaurant, LaFlorentina, located on Newburgh Road just north of Cherry Hill Road in Westland.

Tickets for the evening cost $39.50 per couple and include a prime rib dinner, entertainment and a bottle of champagne. For reservations call 722-7788.

George Young and His Youngsters will be entertaining at a gala New Year's Eve party at Tantis, located at 11780 Telegraph Road, Taylor.

Available by reservation only, the evening will include dinner, dancing, party favors and a continental breakfast. For reservations call 946-7960.

The Ramada Inn, 8270 Wickham Road, Romulus, will have two giant parties with three bands and an open bar all night to ring in the new year.

A roast prime rib dinner will be served from 9 to 11 p.m. There also will be party favors, noisemakers, champagne and the music of Star Shine, Gentlemen and Their Ladies and Tim Hewitt and Feeling.

The cost is $42.95 per person. For reservations call 729-6300.

The Prince and the Pauper Restaurant in Wayne is invited residents to "celebrate New Year's with us", and will feature a special menu, dancing, entertainment, party hats and favors and noisemakers.

Reservations can be made for dinner to 11 p.m., and there will be an open house until 4 a.m. Reservations can be made by calling 738-1783. The restaurant is located at 4915 S. Wayne Road, three blocks south of Michigan Avenue.

There's also going to be a New Year's Eve at Paddles in the Lemontree complex in Van Buren Township.

A prime rib dinner will be served from 9 to 11 p.m., and includes a bottle of champagne per couple and party favors. Dancing to the music of High Rise will start at 10 p.m.

On stage, Al Wygant, "The Magic Bard", will provide an incomprehensible stage show of magic, sorcery and hilarity. He will perform at 11 p.m.

The cost is $50 per couple, and tickets are available in advance at Paddles. Take I-94 to the Belleville Road exit, then follow the service drive to the Lemontree complex, 49345 S. I-94 Service Drive.

For further information call 697-1300.

The Hilton Airport Inn has added something to its plans for New Year's Eve. Along with a lavish $75-per couple party, a special room and champagne package is available for $25 so you don't have to drive home.

Party plans include a buffet with assorted salads, roast steamship round of beef, lasagna, roast turkey and more, an open bar serving cocktails from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, a full bottle of champagne per couple at midnight, hats, noisemakers, party and dancing to the music of Marcus from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

For reservations call 292-3400.

And at Alexander the Great, 34733 Warren Road, Westland, Larry Arbour will entertain. Dinner will be served until 4 a.m., and there will be party hats, noisemakers and "lots of fun".

For further information call 326-5410 or 326-5411.

Ford Museum sets lineup for famous movie series

The Famous Early Movies Series for 1979 at Henry Ford Museum offers 17 films featuring the musical masterpiece of moviedom.

The Sunday series opens Jan. 7 with the 1929 extravaganza, "The Show of Shows." Ann-all-star Warner Brothers cast runs, sings and dances their way through 16 musical and dramatic vignettes, ranging from a military parade with Monte Blue and 300 dancing girls to John Barrymore as King Richard III.

On Jan. 14, almost all the MGM stock company gets together for the 1946 production of Ziegfeld Follies. Fred Astaire, Fanny Brice, Esther Williams, Judy Garland, Lena Horne and many others fall into step behind the direction of Vincente Minnelli.

"Oklahoma," the rousing 1955 Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, makes an appearance Feb. 4.

Ruby red slippers and a yellow brick road make a popular reappearance on March 25 when the classic "Wizard of Oz" (1939) comes to the museum's big theater screen. Judy Garland, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr and Toto continue their search for the Emerald City.

Busby Berkeley goes to bat April 8 as "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" (1949) presents a musical version of the early days of baseball. The top of the batting order in this film lists Frank Sinatra, Gene Kelly and Esther Williams.

The beautiful music of Cole Porter and the talent of Cary Grant merge in the acclaimed 1946 film "Night and Day" showing Oct. 14. Another Berkeley film, "Gold Diggers of 1935," brings lavish production numbers to the screen on Oct. 28.

Famous Early Movies for 1979 come to a close with two award-winning films. On Nov. 4, Jimmy Cagney stars as song writer George M. Cohan in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," the 1942 film which won him an Oscar as best actor, and Big Crosby closes the series as the American who dreams his way into the past in the 1949 production, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" on Nov. 23, 24 and 25.

The Famous Early Movies in Henry Ford Museum Theater are available on the days shown at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m., except Oklahoma, which is shown only at 1:30 p.m. There is no additional charge for the films beyond regular Museum admission.

'Caine Mutiny' set for Meadow Brook

The dramatization made by Herman Wouk of the climatic chapter of his Pulitzer Prize novel, "The Caine Mutiny", will open for a four-week run Jan. 4 at the Meadow Brook Theatre, located on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m.

The action of the play, "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", takes place entirely in a room where a Naval court is sitting to determine whether a lieutenant is to be punished for taking over the command of the USS Caine from its captain at the height of a typhoon when the captain's competence, if not actual insanity, threatened to sink the ship.

One of the most celebrated scenes of the play is the one in which the lieutenant's counsel has the captain recalled to the stand as a witness for the defense.

Booth Colman has returned to Meadow Brook to play the role of the Captain. Colman has been seen here in several plays, including "The Andersonville Trial", "Inherit the Wind", "Death of a Salesman" and "The Merchant of Venice". The counsel for the defense will be played by Meadow Brook newcomer, Peter Galman. Galman will be remembered by daytime television audiences as Tom Hughes in "As the World Turns", a role he played for four years.

The defendant will be played by Michel Cullen and the Judge Advocate will be portrayed by Richard Jamieson. Others in the all-male cast include Ken Graham, Peter McRobbie, Curtis J. Armstrong, Michael Rothhaar, J. L. Dahmann, Daniel Buchen and Charles Nolte, who appeared in the original Broadway production.

"The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" will be directed by Charles Nolte with sets by Doug Wright, lighting by Rich Henson and costumes by Mary Lynn Bonnell.

Tickets for "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial", which will run through Jan. 28, may be purchased by calling the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 377-3300.

Opening week performances are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, 2 and 8:30 p.m. on Saturday and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. The following three weeks will offer performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturdays, 6:30 p.m. on Sundays and 2 p.m. on Wednesdays. The theatre is dark on Mondays.

Hilberry stages 'Look Homeward, Angel'

'Look homeward'

"Look Homeward, Angel", a nostalgic adaptation of Thomas Wolfe's autobiographical novel, officially re-opens the Hilberry Theatre of the new year at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 10. This story about a young man growing up in 1916 in a small North Carolina town features Andrew Barnicle (left) and Eugene Gant (Wolfe himself) and Kristin Reeves-Beauchamp as his first love, Laura. Reservations for the award-winning play can be made by calling the Hilberry Theatre Box Office at 577-2972. The Hilberry is the graduate theater of Wayne State University.

'Cosmos': Wonder of Science Center

On a regular visit to the Detroit Science Center you can plumb the ocean depths, delve the subterranean flora or explore exotic sea creatures, all through the genius of "Cosmos".

"Cosmos" is a 33-minute sensory smorgasbord which vaults the viewer into space, making him an eye witness to the forming of galaxies then hurls him to the underwater depths, experiencing the development of the ocean floors.

Projected onto a 67½ dome screen, "Cosmos" in all its 70 mm grandeur envelopes the viewer with the awesome images of our natural world. This wonderful film is shown in the Detroit Science Center Space Theatre hourly and every 50 minutes on the weekends.

Of special note to all potential Science Center visitors as well is the recent honor bestowed upon the Center for its architectural impact on Detroit. On Dec. 1, Dexter Ferry, President, and Bradley Brewer, Director General, accepted this honorary award at a banquet sponsored by the American Institute of Architects.

The entire notion of a Science Center has been formulated with the futuristic ideal of William Kessler & Associates, Inc.. The stainless steel body appears suspended over the glass enclosed plaza area, flanked by two scarlet tiled cylinders. The entire construction projects open space; the stainless steel upper portion reflects cloud movement and the entire atmosphere, while the two crimson cylinders give the sensation of propulsion.

The Detroit Science Center may not literally blast off the corner of John R Street and East Warren, but visitors certainly will excite in the progressive ideas within and without Detroit's newest landmark. And it's open seven days and nights a week.

The Pulitzer Prize-winning stage adaptation of Thomas Wolfe's novel, "Look Homeward, Angel," officially joins the Hilberry Theatre's repertory on Jan. 10 at 8:30 p.m., the first new offering of the new year.

Adapted for the stage by Ketti Frings, it also received the New York Critics' Circle Award following its Broadway premiere in 1957. Now considered an American classic, the novel, "Look Homeward, Angel" catapulted Wolfe to fame when it was published in 1929. A thinly disguised autobiography, this story about growing up in a small North Carolina town was an immediate success.

In the stage adaptation, Miss Frings has concentrated on the last third of Wolfe's novel, where the young man comes of age and leaves home. Her play has "gargantuan humor and vitality," wrote Brooks Atkinson when Miss Frings drama premiered, and headlines called the adaptation "luminous."

"Look Homeward, Angel" is a marvelous play... a triumphant occasion in every respect. The scale is large, like Thomas Wolfe. It raises the homely affairs of an obscure middle class family to the level of vigorous literature. It gives planetary significance to little things," Atkinson wrote.

In the role of Eugene Gant (Wolfe himself) is Andrew Barnicle, with Joyce Ramsay as Eliza Gant, his mother, a woman obsessed by her own material holdings, Jim Birdsall as W.O. Gant, the father and stonemason imprisoned by his failures, and Mark Robbins as Ben Gant, the brother who never is able to break away from his family.

The play is directed by N. Joseph Calarco, with set design by Kenneth J. Wieggers, costumes by Sharon Larkey and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

For information and reservations, call the Hilberry Theatre Box Office at 577-2972.

"Look Homeward, Angel" plays in repertory with Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," and a double bill of comedies, Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," and Sheridan's, "The Critic."

Bugs Bunny brings his cartoon friends to Detroit's Cobo

The Bugs Bunny Follies is coming to the Detroit metropolitan area.

The two-hour live stage show, featuring Bugs himself and his buddies Daffy Duck, Porky Pig, Road Runner, Speedy Gonzales, Elmer Fudd and Tweety and Sylvester will be at Cobo Arena Jan. 10-14.

Special guests will be the Dynamic Duo of Batman and Robin, who together fight some perplexing crimes with the aid of the audience.

All the characters, with the exception of Batman and Robin, are the voice of the extraordinary Mel Blanc. For 39 years, Mel has been the voice of these and dozens of other Warner Bros. cartoon characters.

The Bugs Bunny Follies is the creation of Roger Hess, presented by Roger Hess Productions. The show is one of several Hess Productions, others being Wonder Woman, Popeye, Flash Gordon, and is considered true family entertainment.

The show delights the audience, adults as well as children, with a mixture of singing, dancing, comedy and a tremendous amount of audience participation. Through the use of highly sophisticated rear screen projection, large cartoon-type color visuals set the changing scenes. Together with the voice of Mel Blanc, it is a fun, live stage show to see.

Tickets for the Bugs Bunny Follies are on sale at the Cobo Arena Box Office, or by mail order by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Cobo Arena, 301 Civic Center Drive, Detroit 48226. Ticket prices are $5.50 and $4.50 with $1 off children 12 years and under. All seats for the Jan. 10 show are $3.50.

Performance times are weeknights at 7:30 p.m., Saturday at 2 and 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 6 p.m.

|-------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| (35) Truck Terminals 1  | Employee, plus                        |
| 3 (10 X 70 foot spaces) | truck berth or docking space on site. |

SECTION 4: That Chapter IV, Article 1, is hereby amended to add a new Section 16A, MT-1 Industrial Transportation District 1, as follows:

16A.01. Statement of purpose. In the MT-1 District, the intent is to permit certain uses and industries which are of a light manufacturing character in industrially planned areas of the City. Further, the intent is to permit with certain conditions, larger-scale trucking terminal operations involving interstate motor carriers, whose activities are incompatible with the great majority of other land uses and are most suitably placed in strategic locations, close to complementary uses and other truck terminals, and locations which are efficiently coordinated with the City's planned street and thoroughfare system.

16A.02. Permitted Principal Uses.

a. All permitted and special approval uses in the M-1 District, subject to the restrictions of that district.
b. Distribution, service and processing centers for commercial and service uses whose basic operation or business functions occur elsewhere. Such facilities in themselves shall not provide passerby or retail-type services and/or trade.
c. Accessory buildings and uses customarily incidental to the above Permitted Principal Uses.

16A.03. Permitted Uses After Special Approval. The following uses shall be permitted subject to the conditions imposed and the review and approval of the Planning Commission: such review and approval shall be presented to the City Council for approval or disapproval for cause. If within thirty (30) days following receipt of the Planning Commission's action the City Council has not reviewed the matter, the Planning Commission's decision shall become final. If the decision of the Planning Commission is concurred in by the City Council, the approval shall take effect as of that date.

a. Truck terminals, subject to the following standards:

1. A landscaped, planted open space of a minimum of 50 feet in depth shall be provided along the full frontage of the site.
2. No structures, parking areas, or facilities shall be located within 50 feet of the front property line.
3. No portion of any structure, facility, access drive or parking area shall be located within 50 feet of any residentially zoned and/or used property. The front of truck terminal buildings which face and are within one hundred and fifty (150) feet of a public right of way must be constructed of a decorative material.
4. There shall be provided, except at entrances and exits, a six (6) foot decorative wall constructed to the standards shown in Section 4.28 or a six (6) foot chain link fence the full width of the developed area of the terminal site set back fifty (50) feet from the property line. Where the principal building is constructed at the fifty (50) foot setback line and where the front of such building is constructed of a decorative brick compatible with the wall, then the decorative wall shall not be required along that portion of the front yard enclosed by the building. When a fence is erected, a landscaped earthen berm shall also be provided within fifty (50) feet of the front property line.
5. Except for the required front yard setback, all developed areas of the site shall be enclosed by a six (6) foot chain link fence or wall. On all sides abutting residentially zoned and/or used property and all office, C-1 and C-2 districts, the portion of the site used for parking and/or storage of truck tractors and/or trailers shall be obscured by a five (5) foot high landscaped berm and the required fence or wall. It is the specific intent of this section that all office, C-1 and C-2 districts, be screened from truck terminal activities. To that end, irregular shaped parcels shall provide screening consistent with the foregoing standards. Furthermore, the Planning Commission may impose additional screening or landscape requirements to meet the intent of this section.
6. Lighting shall be installed and shielded in a manner which shall not create a driving hazard on adjacent streets or which will cause direct illumination on adjacent property.
7. The site shall be designed so that all vehicles can move in a forward manner upon entering and leaving the site, to eliminate the necessity of backing up to enter or exit the site.
8. A plan for the permanent maintenance of all required earthen berms, planting, lawns, and landscaping shall be submitted and adhered to. All earthen berms shall be at least five (5) feet in height and shall have a slope no greater than 1:2.5. Berms shall conform to the following standards:
-- The berm shall be seeded, sodded, or planted with ground cover.
-- The top of the berm shall be landscaped and shall be planted with trees and/or shrubs, as approved by the Planning Commission, so as to achieve within four (4) years of planting a permanent and uninterrupted visual screen of vegetation of at least four (4) feet in height.
9. All truck terminal access drives shall enter from or exit to a designated Class A Wayne County Road or a local road which meets Standards equal to Wayne County Class A designation criteria. Class A as used herein shall not be construed to include Class A restricted.
10. Deceleration lanes shall be provided in accordance with the minimum of the City of Romulus' Industrial Driveway Standards. Acceleration or passing lanes may be required based upon City engineering determination. Driveway entrance width shall be forty (40) feet and tapered to a width of twenty-five (25) feet. In all cases, driveways located in the required front yard shall be curbed for their full length to a height of ten (10) inches.
11. It shall be determined that automotive or truck traffic will be no more hazardous nor the volume of traffic any greater than is normal for the road involved. The Planning Commission shall take into consideration vehicular turning movements in relation to routes of traffic flow, proximity and adequacy of interchanges.
12. Minimum area for truck terminal sites exclusive of buildings shall be ten (10) acres; when no adverse impacts will be incurred, the Planning Commission may reduce this requirement to five (5) acres. Minimum frontage on a public street shall be 100 feet.

13. The use shall be generally compatible with and have no significant adverse environmental impact upon adjacent properties and other property in the district, and as a basis for this determination the Planning Commission may itself conduct studies or require studies from applicants regarding environmental impacts of proposed truck terminal developments.

16A.04. Site Plan Review. In the MT-1 Industrial Transportation 1 District, a site plan shall be submitted for review and approval of the Planning Commission in accordance with Section 4.37 of this ordinance. Standards for truck terminals of Section 16A.03 may be applied to 16A.02 (b) and (c) at the discretion of the Planning Commission.

Further, the intent is to permit, with certain conditions larger-scale trucking terminal operations involving interstate and intrastate motor carriers whose activities are most suitably placed in strategic locations close to complementary uses and other truck terminals, and locations which are efficiently coordinated with the City's planned street and thoroughfare system, with minimized environmental impacts on existing uses.

16B.02. Permitted Principal Uses.

SECTION 7: That the zoning map of the City of Romulus is hereby amended to change all M-2 Industrial District classified lands located in Sections 12 and 13 to MT-2, Industrial Transportation 2 District.

ALOYSIUS SUCHY

Suchy retires as county's corporation counsel

Aloysius J. Suchy, Corporation Counsel for Wayne County, has announced he will retire on Feb. 1 after 28 years of service in various legal positions with the County.

He served 11 years as chief of the county's Civil Division, and the last seven years in the post of Corporation Counsel. Suchy is the County's top legal adviser and heads a 28-member staff that handles a wide range of legal activities from lawsuits to legal opinions on governmental policies.

In announcing his retirement, Suchy said he will join the private law firm of Bellanca, Beattie and De Lisle of Harper Woods, as a partner on April 1.

Suchy is a recognized authority in the field of municipal law. He has lectured extensively at state and national levels on matters related to governmental law.

During his county service, he represented Wayne County in numerous landmark cases, according to George Cross, Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel.

"He recently presented legal arguments in a case dealing with the separation of powers doctrine," Cross said referring to a current lawsuit filed by the Wayne County Prosecutor. That suit asks the Wayne County Circuit Court to overturn a decision by the County Board of Commissioners to lay off attorneys in the Prosecutor's Office due to budget problems.

"The decision in this case will be precedent-setting for the State of Michigan," Cross added. "Suchy's departure will be a great loss to the county, however, the legal profession will benefit from his expertise. I have worked with Suchy for 17 years, and he has consistently demonstrated the legal abilities which I have always admired."

In his official letter of retirement from county service, Suchy cited "staff shortages, pressures and health reasons" as major factors in his decision to leave the county.

"Insufficient staff in this office coupled with the increase in the county's legal problems has made me acutely aware of the tremendous responsibilities carried by this position. During the past year the pressures, tensions, and at times, the frustrations of performing in this position have had an adverse effect upon my physical well-being."

"I see no easing of the problems within the immediate or foreseeable future. After considerable soul-searching, I have decided to retire."

Suchy said it will be up to the Board of Commissioners to appoint a replacement and pointed out that he had given the board "ample notice" to find a successor.

In addition to his county duties, Suchy has been on the Board of Directors of the National Association of County Civil Attorneys (NACCA) for the past 10 years. He served as president of NACCA in 1975-76.

For the past three years, he has been President of the State Association of County Civil Attorneys.

Suchy lives with his wife, Rose Marie, in Northville. They have two children.

Bill protects job seekers' rights

A bill designed to protect the job seekers' rights to privacy in the workplace has moved a step closer to law, with its approval by the State Senate's Labor Committee.

The measure would prohibit an employer from using lie detector tests to screen job applicants. Under a 1975 state law, sponsored by Labor Committee Chairman David A. Plawecki (D-12th District), employers may not require a worker or job applicant to sign a waiver of his or her rights in regard to polygraph tests as a condition of continued employment.

According to Plawecki: "The use of a polygraph test to determine whether a person should be hired is an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy."

"Testimony received by the Labor Committee, coupled with recent reports in the media, indicate that some employers may be making broad inquiries into private areas of a person's background which are unrelated to the requirements of the job."

"Besides potential misuse of this procedure," cautioned Plawecki, "the accuracy and reliability of these tests, particularly as a gauge of a person's future conduct, is open to widespread dispute."

The bill would specifically prohibit an employer, employment agency or labor organization from administering a polygraph examination to an employee or a job applicant as a condition of employment, or of continued employment. Under an amendment added in the Labor Committee, the provisions of the measure would not apply to an internal investigation of an employee of a law enforcement agency.

With only a few days remaining in the current legislative session, Plawecki said he will press for a vote in the full Senate on the polygraph bill before the legislature adjourns.

Choose A Retirement Plan With Security

If You Work For Someone Else...

You can qualify for this tax-sheltered retirement account if you are not currently a participant in any employer-sponsored retirement plan. With an Individual Retirement Custodial Account, you can save up to $1,500 or 15% of your annual earned income (whichever is less) and take the contribution as a tax deduction. In addition, all earnings (interest earned and compounded) on your retirement account are tax-sheltered until retirement. ☐ An eligible IRA participant can increase retirement benefits and tax savings by opening a Spouse's IRA for a non-employed spouse. The combined total of contributions can be up to $1,750 or 15% of the working spouse's annual compensation (whichever is less). You may start making withdrawals from your IRA Account without penalty between the ages of 59½ and 70½.

Both retirement plans earn 8% interest, paid and compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. Minimum deposit is $25 and you can make additions of $25 or more any time. Deposits earn from the day of deposit but all deposits made in same calendar year have same maturity date—three years from December 31 of year in which the deposits are made.

If You Work For Yourself...

A self-employed individual can deposit up to a maximum of $7,500 or 15% of his self-employed income (whichever is less) in a Security Keogh Account and take that amount as an income-tax deduction. ☐ A Keogh Account can also be used to cover income from part-time self-employment even if you are covered by a retirement plan in a full-time job. Such part-time income could include consulting or lecture fees, director's or trustee's fee or income from art work. ☐ As an employer with a Keogh Account, you must include all employees who have worked for you for 1,000 hours or more for three consecutive years at the same contribution rate you select for yourself.

Withdrawals without penalty are permitted in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate. There is also a substantial I.R.S. penalty for early withdrawal.

January in Michigan: Great for 'mushers'

January in Michigan is great month for "mushers".

Exciting competition as colorful as a Jack London adventure story comes to life in sled dog races scheduled at Hilton Shanty Creek, Bellaire, Jan. 6-7; the Grand Prix Track at Houghton Lake Jan. 13-14; Royal Scot Golf Course in Lansing Jan. 20-21, and the Upper Great Lakes Championship Races Jan. 27-28 at the County Fairgrounds in Iron River.

For snowmobilers, it's the month for the first two legs of Michigan's Triple Crown of professional snowmobile enduro racing. The Thunder Bay 250 at Alpena comes first with the time trials set for Jan. 5-8 and the race on Jan. 13. Next comes the T.C. 250 at Traverse City Jan. 27 with time trials Jan. 20-21 and 24-26. "Fun for all" snowmobile action will be in high gear Jan. 20-21 at the Snowmobile Marathon and Winter Festival in Gaylord and the Snowmobile Rally Jan. 19-21 at Tawas and East Tawas. The Newaygo County Snowfari '79 Jan. 20 at White Cloud will wind up a big day on the trails with a banquet, dance and door prizes.

Michigan always puts on a "good snow" for skiers during the months of winter and January is no exception. Downhill or cross country, from beginners to "hot dogger", Michigan's ski areas provide a full measure of snow season pleasure.

As for events, Cliff's Ridge at Marquette will hold their Mid-America Challenge Races Jan. 3-4 and the Copper Country Cross Country Championship races are set for Jan. 21 at Calumet in the Upper Peninsula. In the Lower Peninsula, Boyne Mountain plays host to the Mid-America Series Slalom Deby Jan. 6-7 and at Crystal Mountain near Thompsonville, the MSCA Governor's Cup Race Jan. 13 and MCSA Open Races Jan. 28.

Fishing fanciers and fun seekers look forward to the emergence of Tip-Up-Town, USA, Jan. 19-21 and 27-28, on the ice of Houghton Lake. The once-a-year "village" bustles with family activity and fun for all. The by-laws of Tip-Up Town require everyone to have a good time, and it's certainly not difficult to obey the laws.

Some of the other happy time get together on the calendar include the Winter Festival Jan. 12-14 at Hale, Winter Carnival at Royal Valley Ski Resort near Buchanan Jan. 13-14, and the Winterfest at the Royal Scot Golf Course-Washington

Ice Arena, Lansing, Jan. 20-21.

Theatre offerings for the month include several timeless works. "Godspell" will be presented at Kalamazoo Center in Kalamazoo Jan. 4-6. A stirring play adapted from one of the great novels of World War II, "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" will be on stage at Meadow Brook Theatre, Oakland University, Rochester, Jan. 4-28. Shaw Theatre, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, will present "The Rainmaker", Jan. 24-27, and the playbill for the Civic Theatre in Battle Creek features "Shenandoah" Jan. 26-28.

Musically, a wide variety of superb entertainment fills the month. Verdi's "La Traviata" — in English — comes to the Music Hall in Detroit Jan. 12, 14, 17 and 19-20. The Bulgarian Folk Ensemble will be featured at the Center for the Arts in Midland Jan. 16 and at Kellogg Auditorium in Battle Creek Jan. 19. At the Warriner Auditorium at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, the Korean National Symphony will be in concert Jan. 25.

Michigan offers a "snow white world" of things to "ski" and do in January and the winter days ahead. To keep track of them all, write for a free copy of the Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909.

Mush...

You don't have to be a participant to feel the excitement and thrills generated by the enthusiastic teamwork of sled dog racing, one of Michigan's popular winter sports. And January sees four such competitions in Bellaire, Lansing, Houghton Lake and Iron Mountain. That's only a few of the events in store for Michiganders next month, according to Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

MAKE US AN OFFER!

Now's your chance to cash in on the new-car deal of the year.

At Toyota Ann Arbor, we still have plenty of new Toyotas in stock... and we'd sure like to get rid of them fast. In fact, we're so anxious to sell you a new Toyota that we'll take less profit per car than ever before.

Celica GT Liftback

$150 over dealer cost on all demo's. And just $50 over dealer cost on all trucks.

Why are we making the sacrifice? Simple: with the demand for Toyotas so fierce now, we'll only get more later if we sell more now.

So, you've got us where you want us.

That includes unbelievable deals like these:

$150 over dealer cost on all automatics;

Come in and make us an offer.

Metroparks are different than recreation supplied by most other units of government. Most Metroparks are fairly good size providing 1,000 to 3,000 acres or larger sites. They are pleasing blend of the natural resources such as a lake, a river, woods or wildlife area accompanied by man-made facilities that invite more use — such as hills for tobogganing or sledding in winter, picnic areas and lakes for swimming, boating or fishing in the summer, plus spring and fall facilities. Most Metroparks are within an hour's drive for most residents of the region and with "day-use" facilities only.
